

Artist Records Ancestor's Heritage

By SAM THORSON

Outstate Nebraska Bureau
Sioux City, Iowa — It hasn't been easy, but Chuck Raymond as finally arrived as a professional free-lance artist. Raymond's success is unusual for two reasons: first, he works independently, draws and paints what he likes, and doesn't need to rely on commercial or advertising jobs. Second, he is a full-blooded Indian.

Born on Nebraska's Winnebago reservation in 1931 to parents who often had to hunt for food on the table, Raymond nevertheless managed to distinguish himself in the football field and win a athletic scholarship to Southern State College in Springfield, S.D., where he majored in art.

It's not surprising that his artistic subjects — Indian culture, action, sports, hunting, outdoors — reflect the hardships and concerns of his early life. Drawing upon those concerns, Raymond has painted himself into a corner in an artistic specialty which brings in more requests for paintings, drawings, designs, illustrations and portraits than he can possibly handle.

"It was hard at first," Raymond said, recalling his start as a free-lance artist 11 years ago after two stints in the service, a broken marriage and years of beating around from one job to another. "It took a while to establish myself, to get known as an artist."

A big break was a commission from the Sioux City Museum to do a series of paintings of North American Indians in their natural and cultural surroundings, and another to do display illustrations when the museum moved to its first separate quarters.

Working as a sports cartoonist for the Sioux City Journal helped his career by familiarizing the public with his work. Also fortunate for Raymond was the donation of rent-free studio space by the Sioux City Goodwill.

"Now people will come in and ask to see some of my work and I don't have anything around, because I sell it as fast as I finish it," Raymond said. "I'm always behind in my work, I have to borrow paintings back from people to put together a portfolio for a pow-wow or a sidewalk exhibit."

Raymond draws action and sports scenes because they're "what I like, what interests me. I draw animals and people because I want to capture emotions in facial expressions. I'd be lying to myself and to other people if I painted mountains, trees and landscapes, because I don't care about them."

Dramatic and charged with action, his watercolors often show a lone Indian, armed with nothing but courage and a primitive weapon, confronting a natural enemy: a brave with a tomahawk, for example, standing fast against the charge of a wounded bear, or drawing a bead with bow and arrow on an unsuspecting deer; of a pack of hungry wolves converging on a hunter and his fallen prey.

The subject matter is generally Indian, but the style, Raymond freely admits, shows more the influence of white Western painters such as Charlie Russell than of other Indian artists. "To me, Russell is great," he said. "He's sort of my idol." According to Raymond, much of the Indian art commonly seen in books comes from Oklahoma and the Southwest, and is highly stylized. Raymond's style is more naturalistic.

"I'm just coming into a unique style of my own," Raymond said. "This is what an artist shoots for all his life."

Raymond said an acquaintance has offered to buy anything he wants to paint and then resell it, giving Raymond the freedom to concentrate on the subjects that interest him the most. "This is what I'd like to do, if possible," Raymond said. "I'm also looking forward to a one-man show, which is something I've never had."

U.S. TROOPS REPAIRING DAMAGE

Typhoon Hester Wrecks 3 Bases

... THOUSANDS HOMELESS

Saigon (AP) — Losses mounted to millions of dollars Monday and at least 125 U.S. aircraft were reported damaged or destroyed at three major American bases wrecked by Typhoon Hester.

Thousands of American troops, many scheduled for imminent rotation to the United States, were mobilized to rebuild the bases and return operations to normal.

Relief Promised
South Vietnamese president, Nguyen Van Thieu, promised quick relief to the more than three million civilians in stricken five northernmost provinces of the country, which cover an area of 10,000 square miles. Thieu personally appealed to the people to remain calm.

The death toll from the Saturday typhoon rose to at least 36, including three American GIs. Hundreds were injured, including 21 U.S. servicemen. Tens of thousands of Vietnamese were left homeless.

Under orders from Thieu, Prime Minister Tran Thien Khiem and several cabinet members flew to Da Nang to survey the damage.

Associated Press Correspondent J. T. Wolkert reported from Da Nang that at least 38 U.S. helicopters were destroyed and 87 other aircraft, most of them helicopters, sustained light to heavy damage. The average cost of a helicopter is in the vicinity of $300,000.

Aid Civilian
Despite the crippling of much of the U.S. air fleet, helicopters flew more than 300 missions Sunday evacuating about 1,100 South Vietnamese civilians and 900 South Korean marines from stricken areas. Sources said one third of the U.S. American Division's large fleet of helicopters was destroyed or damaged, including 38 destroyed and 18 damaged.

The U.S. Command said the destruction would not affect U.S. tactical operations in the region since American troops were in a standoff at Chu Lai, the headquarters of the American Division 50 miles south of Da Nang. It was the hardest hit of the three bases, which also included Da Nang and Camp Eagle, the headquarters of the 101st Airborne Division 50 miles to the north.

10,000 Houses
A spokesman for the South Vietnamese government reported that in Quang Tin province more than 10,000 houses were destroyed, another 11,000 were heavily damaged, and 90% of the food crop was damaged. In Quang Nam province, he added, the roofs of 70% of the houses were blown off, and the rest of the houses were 30% damaged. In Quang Tri province, there was 40 to 50% structural damage and in Thua Thien province it was 30 to 60%, he said.

Israeli Shipping Line To Start New Service

Hong Kong (UPI) — The Israeli national shipping line, ZIM, will start a new container service linking Hong Kong with Japan and the United States early next year, the line's agents here said Sunday. The service will start in April and will gradually replace the conventional ships now in operation.

DIE IN FIGHTING ...

Ireland Battles Weekend Riots

Belfast, Northern Ireland (AP) — Police said Sunday night they killed a terrorist bomber, a sixth civilian slain by British troops in a weekend of fighting and shooting in troubled Northern Ireland.

Guerrilla gunmen wounded five British soldiers earlier Sunday and the rebels declared their forces "on the offensive." The latest civilian death occurred after two men and a woman were seen planting a bomb outside a Belfast nightclub before midnight, police said. They said the three died, ignoring a warning to flee, and officers opened fire. One man was killed, a man was wounded and another man was captured, a spokesman reported.

Customers in the nightclub tumbled through a back door to safety as British army explosives experts examined the bomb and said could not be defused. Troops fled off the area and the club exploded a few minutes later, wrecking the club. No one was injured.

The nightclub incident followed the killing of two men in a car by British troops and the deaths of three would-be bank robbers by British soldiers in the weekend. A slayings brought Ulster's death toll to 133 in two years of violence.

The outlawed Irish republican Army — IRA — are to avenge the deaths. A chief of staff Sean MacPiarais told a cheering crowd in Dublin, across the border from the Irish Republic, that IRA men would launch a new wave of force against British troops in the north "more decisive than anything so far."

MacPiarais, whose organization is battling to end British rule in the north, said: "We are on the offensive in all parts of the north." The factional violence taken a sharp upturn since

Aug. 9, when the government began internment suspected IRA members without trial.

In Newry, the border city where British troops Saturday killed three young men attempting a bank holdup, mobs fired and looted stores and wrecked two mail trucks.

Bernadette Devlin, leftist member of Parliament, arriving in Newry for a protest rally, denounced the city's British garrison as murderers and said: "The only time soldiers have the right to shoot robbers is under martial law."

Retroactive Pay Boost OK Expected

New York (AP) — The President of the United Auto Workers said Sunday he believed President Nixon's Pay Board, of which he is a member, would permit already-negotiated pay increases for union workers to go into effect retroactively when the freeze ends Nov. 13.

Leonard Woodcock declined to say whether he and George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, would quit the board if the increases were disallowed.

Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Cost of Living Council, said in Washington the Board has the power to allow workers to collect retroactively increases now blocked by the freeze.

Woodcock said even the business members of the board "would have some concern for the sanctity of a contract."

Woodcock was asked: One of the things labor wants is retroactive pay from Aug. 15, pay that was in contract that has not been paid. Are you satisfied that the Pay Board will have the absolute power to make that decision and what will you do if the Pay Board decides against you?

He replied: "Well, first of all, I am satisfied, yes the board has that power. I think that is very clear and I think the case in favor of granting it is so strong that I don't anticipate there will be a negative answer, so I am not going to anticipate what our position would be if there is in effect a negative answer."

"Existing contracts should be honored in their terms," he said, noting that most are now three years. "Otherwise we go back to one-year contracts."

Rumsfeld, however, would not predict what the tri-partite board might do.

"Retroactive increases are illegal under the freeze, but once the freeze is altered ... it would be within the power of the Pay Board to make judgments that would enable a person, in effect, to recoup," Rumsfeld said in an interview.

Asked whether pay raises promised a worker, but frozen by Nixon's Aug. 15 economic declarations, would automatically go into effect at the end of the freeze Nov. 13, Rumsfeld responded:

"The freeze will stay in effect until the Pay Board renders a decision, or in the absence of such an action the COLC could act. It is anticipated that they will make some judgments and announcements prior to the Nov. 13 date."

Public Defender May Get Office; County Board Plans To Seek Bids

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

After nearly a year in office, Public Defender T. Clement Gaughan and his staff may have the office space in the County-City Building which was promised him within a short time after his appointment to the new post.

Lancaster County Commissioner William Grossman told The Star that the county board plans to submit for bids within a month the plans which were finalized in August for remodeling a portion of the fourth floor for the office space.

The commissioners had indicated to Gaughan at the time of his appointment last January that they would have the area remodeled for him as soon as possible and approved Gaughan's renting space outside the building for the interim period.

According to Gaughan, space was rented at $200 a month from Feb. 1 to Sept. 1 when commissioners had indicated the offices in the County-City Building would be ready.

Gaughan said he had given notice on that basis and was forced to move Sept. 1. Since that time, Gaughan has been occupying two extra office rooms in the commissioner's office and sharing the same entrance to the offices.

According to the commissioners, remodeling couldn't be done sooner because the necessary cash was not available even though the cost of the project had been budgeted.

Grossman said the money is now available and that he anticipates the estimated $20,000 project will take about six weeks to complete.

Plans for remodeling the area which was not completely finished when the building was constructed call for a reception area and three offices for the public defender and an office area, waiting room and reception area for the Conciliation Court.

The Conciliation Court, which offers counseling to couples to see if a married couple having difficulties may be reconciled or if divorce is the only alternative, is now offered in a small room adjacent to the Equity Court room on the third floor.

Gaughan said he is not sure how long the planned space will be adequate for his office which now includes himself, two deputies, a law clerk and secretary.

He said he anticipates hiring at least two more deputies within another year or so since his office has already handled about 350 cases in the first nine months of its existence.

"Omaha has nine deputies in the Public Defender's office and we have two and they don't do any more than we do," Gaughan said, noting that Omaha handles no juvenile cases while about one-third of Lancaster County's public defender office time is spent on juvenile cases

Center Offers Information On Control Program

Businesses in the Lincoln area are being asked to take advantage of information available at the local "service compliance center" when confronted by problems brought about by the administration's wage-price freeze and post-freeze programs.

According to Ronald Meyer, taxpayer service representative, the center is "not just investigative service," but also added that "businesses need to feel we are here to help them understand and explain their responsibilities under the new economic programs."

The center, located in room 403 of the federal court building at 10th and P, is an integral part of the Internal Revenue Service and is presently staffed by four field officers.

The purpose of the center is to provide information to the public, as well as to investigate complaints and conduct independent spot checks on area businesses.

The center will also review requests for exemptions, exceptions and any other adjustments in accordance with guidelines and standards issued by the price commission and the pay board.

Similar centers within Nebraska are located in Grand Island and in Omaha. The Omaha office is the largest and has supervisory capacity over the Lincoln and Grand Island centers. Outstate persons must refer their inquiries and complaints to one of these three centers.

From August 15 through September 30 3,191 inquiries were made and 129 complaints voiced at the three state-wide centers.

Of the inquiries, 1,208 concerned prices, 1,175 were about wages and 808 related to rents.

Nixon Has 'No False Hopes' About State Visits

(c) New York Times News Service

Washington — President Nixon, in a brief radio address marking Veterans Day, asked for "no false hopes" about his trips to Peking and Moscow next year because of the "great differences" between the United States and the Soviet and Chinese governments. But he expressed optimism about the prospects for lasting peace. (More on Page 10.)

India, Pakistan Report Attacks

Karachi, Pakistan — Both Pakistan and India reported attacks along the tense East Pakistan-India border. Pakistan said two battalions of Bengali guerrillas had been repulsed by Indian troops and artillery had been repulsed in attacks in Comilla District. India reported the unprovoked Pakistani mortar shelling of border towns in Assam and Tripura.

U.N. Officials Hear Concertos

United Nations, N.Y. — An audience of United Nations officials and delegates and music lovers from all over the world heard Pablo Casals conduct two Bach concertos, play a folk tune and lead the world premiere of his own composition, "Hymn," a short choral work dedicated to the United Nations. After the musical tribute to peace in the General Assembly chamber, Secretary General Thant presented the 95-year-old cellist with the United Nation's peace medal.

Kosygin Tours Refinery

Edmonton, Alberta — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin stopped in Edmonton on his tour of Canada and visited a nickel refinery at Fort Saskatchewan. Unusually heavy security precautions prompted by hostile demonstrations elsewhere in Canada discouraged most Edmontonians from coming out to see the Russian leader. (More on Page 2).

Troops Kill 3 Men

Belfast, Northern Ireland — British soldiers shot and killed three men committing a robbery about 40 miles south of Belfast. An army spokesman said the robbers ignored two warnings to stop. (More on Page 1.)

Retroactive Wage Hike Possible

Washington — The Pay Board will have the power to retroactively grant wage increases that were affected by the wage-price freeze, Donald Rumsfeld, the head of the Cost of Living Council, said. Leonard Woodcock, a labor member of the Pay Board, said that he would favor granting such retroactive raises. (More on Page 1.)

Selection Is Criticized

Washington — In a telegram to Treasury Secretary Connally, the National Women's Political Caucus criticized the administration for naming only one woman among the 22 members of the Price Commission and the Pay Board. The group asked that the bodies be expanded and more women named.

Action Campaign Planned

Washington — A conference of Hispanic-Americans ended with decisions to create a national political action campaign with a permanent Washington office, to back independence for Puerto Rico and to study the possibility of a separate Spanish-speaking political party.

Lindsay Campaigns For Evers

Jackson, Miss. — Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, appearing in Jackson on behalf of Charles Evers, the black candidate for governor, conducted himself with presidential campaign style professionalism. Reacting to changes that he was a "carpetbagger," Lindsay said he was proud of being an outsider and added: "Let's face the truth: Most of us are outsiders." (More on Page 17.)

Compliance Not 'Good'

New York — An analysis of State Department of Agriculture and Markets retail price reports showed that leading retailers in the city had increased the prices of one of four meat cuts since the beginning of the wage-price freeze. The increases contradict statements by federal officials charged with enforcing the freeze that business compliance has been "good."

Two Nabbed In Toronto Before Visit By Kosygin

Toronto (P) — Police raided 18 homes, seized a number of firearms and arrested two men Sunday, acting on tips that an attempt would be made here against the life of Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

Kosygin arrived Sunday night in a Canadian armed forces jet at a remote corner of Toronto International Airport and was whisked away in a black limousine surrounded by motorcycle policemen. The airport was heavily guarded.

A police spokesman said the raids and arrests were made early Sunday. The men arrested were identified as Gerald Doyle, 18, and Kenneth Wilson, 27, both of Toronto.

Doyle was charged with possession of a restricted weapon and an offensive weapon. Wilson was charged with possession of an explosive substance, restricted weapons and stolen goods.

at 8 a.m. Tuesday instead of on Monday night as previously planned, a Canadian Foreign Office spokesman said.

Toronto prepared for Kosygin's visit with security measures described by Police Chief Harold Adamson as the strictest in many years.

Inspector Roy Soplef of the Toronto police intelligence bureau said the raids produced handguns, rifles and bayonets.

"In one, we seized a large quantity of loaded firearms," he said.

Soplef said the raids were conducted after police received information about "attempts to assassinate" Kosygin.

"It doesn't seem to be a large number of persons involved, but people were talking," he said.

He added that some of the raids were made on members of the rightwing Edmund Burke Society.

Paul Fromm, a member of the society, said police with search warrants seized "hunting rifles and hunting and fishing knives."

Geza Matrai, also a member of the society, was charged last week with assaulting the Soviet premier in Ottawa.

Matrai, an unsuccessful Social Credit party candidate in Thursday's Ontario provincial election, is being held pending legal proceedings.

In a letter to Kosygin, the Ukrainian Catholic Council of Canada made charges of religious persecution under

Alexei N. Kosygin

Soviet government in the Ukraine. The letter, written by Bishop Isidore Borecky, asked for the release of priests "arrested unjustly" by the Soviets.

Kosygin made a flying five-hour visit to Edmonton, Alta. Sunday on his way to Toronto. Hundreds of police armed with machine guns and revolvers stood between him and some 700 angry demonstrators.

The touring Soviet leader was greeted by Premier Peter Lougheed of Alberta and other provincial leaders and then was whisked away in a limousine for a 22-mile trip to a nickel refinery at Fort Saskatchewan.

Agnew, State Department Seem Split On Greece

Washington (P) — Administration policy toward the authoritarian government of Greece appears to be taking on a split personality, with the conciliatory statements of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew on one hand, and the critical attitude of the State Department on the other.

Agnew, the diplomatic tourist just back from a week in the land of his forebears, is expected to report to President Nixon this week on 6½ hours of conferences, and hours more of travel and informal talks, with Greek Prime Minister George Papadopoulos.

The Greek dictator bid Agnew farewell from Athens Saturday with an appeal to the United States "not to listen to the sirens which claim we do not believe in the principles of our forefathers."

Papadopoulos said his regime will establish democracy, but, as always, he avoided any commitment as to when. He has said it will not be this year.

Agnew, while saying he is convinced Papadopoulos "intends to return his country to representative government," gave no public hint of pressure or persuasion to speed the process.

A month ago, the State Department issued a policy summary that said "we are disappointed with the regime's slow progress toward its stated objective of the full implementation of the 1938 constitution." That would restore representative rule, but at present, the Papadopoulos government rules by decree, martial law remains in effect for offenses considered too involve security — meaning that of the present government — and parliament is suspended.

Agnew said he had found "a spirit of patriotism and unity" in Greece. He complimented Papadopoulos during their talks for progress in education, health, welfare, electrification and irrigation. Publicly, he said excellent things are happening in rural Greece, and that he recognizes and appreciates "the achievements that are going forward under the present Greek government."

The State Department policy summary said "we continue to urge the Greek government to return to representative government, and to civil, as opposed to martial law."

Agnew obviously saw his mission in different terms. He stressed security, and was said to feel that an overt attempt to press Papadopoulos for the restoration of democracy wouldn't work anyhow.

"... The United States government has not in my judgment expressed dissatisfaction with the government of Greece," he said. "Certain members of the government have expressed a desire to see the Greek government return to a more representative form." And he said it is not up to the United States to impose its attitudes on Greece as to a schedule for the return of representative rule.

"The 'Sunday Journal and Star' delivered at your door has six sections of interesting, timely features. You'll like the sports section known as 'Sports Red,' whether you are a Husker fan, or hunter.

The State Department paper said the military coup that installed Papadopoulos posed the problem of maintaining security interests "while encouraging the return to representative government we believe is necessary for Greece's long-term stability and progress."

Conference Interests Politicians

... CAUCUS ON AGING BECOMES CAMPAIGN STAGING GROUND

The New York Times

Washington — With more than a year to go before the next presidential election, politicians are converting the White House Conference on Aging into a 1972 campaign staging ground rather than a caucus on the problems of the elderly.

The White House is laying plans to use the conference next month as a platform for President Nixon's appeals to voters over 65 years old.

Democrats and organized labor are maneuvering to produce a set of conference proposals that would demonstrate how little has, in their view, been done for the aged by the incumbent Republican administration.

Attention Not Resented

And spokesmen for the elderly, far from resenting the sudden attention to a segment of the voting population that has been overshadowed by attention to the new under-21 voters, are relishing the opportunity to convert the conference into a focal point for politics.

The conference will assemble here three days after Thanksgiving — and on the eve of election year 1972. Its delegates, frustrated by decades of lip service to the problems of the aged, will display a militancy matching the mood of their younger American offspring.

They will recite the statistics that provide a framework for their lives:

—One in 10 Americans is a part of the environment of loneliness, illness and idleness that is the nation's reward for longevity.

—One-fourth of those over 65 are officially designated among the impoverished.

—Nearly half the aged blacks make their homes in central cities whose abandonment mirrors their own.

But the statistic that will play the biggest part in determining how the White House conference comes to grips with the issues of aging is this one:

More than 19 million Americans over 65 will be eligible to vote next year.

Balks At Efforts

The White House has made it clear to conference officials that it wants a favorable image of President Nixon to emerge from the debates over retirement income, national health insurance, nursing home care and similar issues. Simultaneously, it has balked at the planners' efforts to guarantee such a result by adopting programs now that will help the aged.

Democrats whose congressional committees have examined the problems of the elderly for decades are suddenly reexamining them in hearings that afford an opportunity to warn the White House that many believe conference rhetoric will not suffice.

Activist leaders of groups representing the elderly have maneuvered Democrats and labor officials into key positions on conference panels in the hope of forcing a president seeking re-election to deliver on concrete proposals for assistance that will be developed by the panels.

Reports Disregarded

Nixon's first three White House conferences — on hunger in 1969, on children last year and on youth earlier this year — produced recommendations at odds with White House political goals, detailed criticism of the administration and reports that have been all but disregarded. By March, it appeared to many that the conference on aging was likely to yield similar results.

Spokesmen for blacks, Indians, Spanish-speaking Americans and the blind and even experts in rehabilitation were complaining that their roles would be minimal.

At hearings by the Senate Select Committee on Aging, the White House was accused of staking pre-conference technical committees with Republicans.

House Trailer Hearings

Rep. David Pryor, D-Ark., held unofficial hearings on nursing home conditions in a house trailer to dramatize what he regarded as inattention to that problem.

The White House called in Arthur S. Flemming, retired president of Macalester College in Minnesota, who was an Eisenhower era secretary of health, education and welfare, to be chairman of the conference.

Nixon knew that, among Republicans, Flemming's credentials among the elderly were unimpaired.

Engineered Endorsement

At the first White House Conference on Aging, during the last days of the Eisenhower administration in 1961, Flemming secretly engineered an endorsement of medicare, which his superiors, including the unsuccessful presidential candidate, Richard Nixon, had opposed.

Since March of this year, Flemming has worked quietly in much the same fashion to attempt to strengthen the conference's image.

His style is described by Charles H. Chaskes, president of the National Association of State Units of Aging, as a "grand manner; he's not averse to calling cabinet members to a meeting."

In June, Flemming set these immediate goals:

—To involve Nixon personally in the nursing home issue.

—To create a cabinet committee on aging.

—To produce a series of specific benefits for the elderly before Thanksgiving to take the edge off anti-administration sentiment at the conference.

One associate said Flemming's objective was to "recognize the conference process as a political lever and use it to get results."

Two Goals Achieved

Flemming achieved the first two goals. By the end of June, the president had delivered an address in Chicago declaring that medicare and medicaid funds should not go to sub-standard nursing homes.

That policy was solidified in an Aug. 6 order issued by Nixon during a tour of a model nursing home in, not coincidentally, New Hampshire, where the first presidential primary will be held. The order directed that efforts to upgrade staff nursing home standards were to be "consolidated" at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

In the case of the cabinet committee, John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's domestic affairs adviser, and H. R. Haldeman, White House chief of staff, were reported reluctant to give the panel any specific mandate other than to achieve "the good life" for the elderly.

Not Politically Helpful

But conference officials retorted that such a superficial role was not politically helpful. In their view, the administration could attain specific achievements without spending huge new sums of money if it coordinated activities of various agencies through the cabinet committee.

For example, one possibility is to provide public transportation for inner-city elderly.

The Department of Transportation has funds for equipment, but not for operating vehicles. The Labor Department, HEW, and the Office of Economic Opportunity have money for personnel. The solution, Flemming's staff suggested, was simply to pool resources.

With the conference drawing near, such concrete programs have yet to emerge, however, and Fleming's allies now say they are only "hopeful" of achieving the goal of dulling conference criticism of the administration by giving delegates something to praise.

'What Can He Do Now?'

Referring to Ehrlichman, one conference activist said, "What can he do now? Nothing, or he'll jeopardize 19 million countable votes."

Flemming inserted in the conference schedule an open forum, with the retired chief justice, Earl Warren, as chairman, and set up a series of unofficial panels whose reports on such topics as the black aged or consumer problems will become part of the official record.

Such moves have won a grudging respect from such activists as Nelson H. Cruikshank, a one-time labor official who is president of the National Council of Senior Citizens.

Before Flemming's appointment, Cruikshank was warning that the conference might "set back this nation's efforts on behalf of its older population."

Now he says, "We've got our fingers crossed."

Emhart Sales Up From 1970

The Emhart Corporation in Hartford, Conn. has reported a consolidated net income of $9,229,000, or $1.86 a share, for the nine months ending Sept. 30.

Consolidated net sales for the period for the diversified hardware and machinery producer were $174,578,000, an increase of $4,065,000 over total sales in 1970. The Notifier Company of Lincoln is a subsidiary of the Emhart Corporation.

American-Owned Pipe Line Cut, Set On Fire In Jordan

Beirut, Lebanon (AP) — The American-owned Trans Arabian Pipeline Tapline which carries Saudi Arabian oil to the Mediterranean, was cut and set on fire by an explosion in northern Jordan early Sunday, a tapline spokesman reported.

It was the third time in less than two months that the 1,000-mile pipeline was breached.

The explosion set the pipeline ablaze 34 miles from the Syrian frontier, the spokesman said. Firemen reached the blaze before dawn and put it out in several hours.

Pumping has been interrupted and the flow of oil to the pipeline's Mediterranean outlet near Sidon in Lebanon has been temporarily discontinued. At maximum capacity, the pipeline carries 480,000 barrels of oil daily.

The Jordanian government blamed unidentified "Saboteurs" for the explosion. It blamed the two previous explosions — Sept. 8 and Sept. 15 — on Palestinian guerrillas. But no guerrilla group publicly claimed responsibility for them.

Filthy GAR Cemetery Restored By WWI Vet

Bridgeton, N.J. (AP) — The 68 men, their bones and once resplendent blue uniforms rotted, had slept beneath the sod for decades. Their cannon was rusted and covered with weeds. Nobody seemed to care.

Ronald L. Boultinghouse, who soldiered in France during World War I, looked on the cemetery established in 1877 by veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic and said to himself, "What a shame."

The markers of the Civil War veterans were filthy and overgrown with brambles and weeds.

So the 74 year-old Boultinghouse, known as "Pop," decided to do something about it. Today, six years later, the cemetery has been restored.

Pop's first task was to cut through all the growth. Working alone with only a few hand tools, he gradually cleared the site. Then, with the help of Freeholder John L. Rose of Cumberland County, he obtained 40 tons of gravel and 32 tons of top soil.

"I wheeled it all in with a wheelbarrow," Boultinghouse said. He found the cannon, which had tumbled from its mount and been lost in the weeds years earlier and had it remounted.

"It took five strong men to lift it up and put it back in position," he said. He now repaints the gun every year, and plants new grass.

Many of the headstones, made of Vermont marble, have been repositioned and straightened. All have been cleaned.

The Bridgeton American Legion Post has agreed to carry on maintenance of the cemetery at the request of Boultinghouse, a member. He also works fulltime as a monument engraver.

Boultinghouse, who dropped out of school "to help support my family" in the sixth grade, later qualified for the 1916 Olympics as a member of the U.S. track team. But World War I came along, and he never got a chance to test his speed. Instead he went to France in 1917 with the 359th Infantry from Texas.

Every day Boultinghouse arrives at the cemetery early in the morning to raise the flag and then returns at sundown to lower it.

Boultinghouse plans to mark Veterans Day the same way, by raising the flag over the cemetery.

"If our positions were reversed," Boultinghouse said of the men buried there, "they'd have done the same for us, I'm sure."

all the cars in the world on the basis of engineering, construction integrity, reliability and the degree of perfection with which they fill their intended function, then the ten best cars in the world are probably all built by Mercedes-Benz."

That was the opinion of one of Road & Track's editors as they pooled 93 years of automotive experience in compiling a list of the world's ten best cars.

His five associates were, in their words, "not prepared to go quite that far." Other factors such as list price, they insisted, would have to be considered.

Still, the panel agreed that two Mercedes-Benz models, the legendary 300SEL 6.3 and the new 350SL, belonged among the ten best. The only manufacturer to be so honored. And a third Mercedes-Benz, the 280SE, was judged the world's best sedan in the $6,000 to $10,000 price category.

But don't simply take Road & Track's word, or ours. Come in. Look at any model on the basis of engineering, construction integrity, reliability and the degree to which it fulfills its intended function.

Judge for yourself.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Generally speaking, the advance of science has been a fantastic boon to mankind but it may be about to prove that even it is not perfect. The United Press International reports the findings of an embryologist, Dr. Robert T. Francouer, to the effect that a system is now known for non-natural birth resulting in the exact duplicates of individuals.

The process is called cloning where a piece of skin tissue will be taken from a man, the cells insulated and allowed to grow, and their development into an identical twin, minus the man's age. Francouer said cloning will be occurring regularly within two decades and warned of the resultant social danger.

If only one more small letter were added to the name of the process, it would become "clowning" and maybe that's not too far off base. If the thing ever came into vogue, it would certainly have its share of assets and liabilities.

We read recently an article in the Saturday Evening Post by Theodore Sorensen, on humor in American politics. He related a tale about Abraham Lincoln when he was accused in a debate of being two-faced.

Lincoln reportedly rose, walked to the rostrum and said: "Ladies and gentlemen of the audience, I leave it to you. If I had two faces, would I be wearing this one?"

Obviously, some of us would not be overjoyed at the prospect of producing an exact replica of ourselves. Still, human nature being what it is, who knows what a man might decide? And if the process can work with a man, presumably it can work with a woman.

Imagine the family disputes that could develop with such a situation as this. The wife who might want to take her chances with offspring in the usual manner could have a hard time bringing her husband around to that point of view.

If the guy wanted a son, he might not be willing to take the chance inherent in the normal course of events. Additionally, the fellow might be a fine husband but a little short in the appearance category.

What wife could tell her husband such a harsh fact? And if the wife preferred to have a daughter, how could the two of them ever settle their differences?

Even if you could solve that problem, what about the other people in the world? Most of us know at least a few people who are obnoxious enough the first time around, much less facing the prospect of an exact duplicate in the years ahead.

The story says nothing about personality but there are some people we could do without a second time from that point of view. There are the know-it-alls, for instance, who dominate every conversation that comes along. Not a subject can come up that these kind are not authorities on and by the time you have spent an evening with them, you wish you had never left home in the first place.

Think what such a thing might do for parents inclined even as matters now stand to date on their children. If they were blessed with a child who was a carbon copy of them, they might well become unbearable. That old cliché about a spitting image would take on a whole new meaning and relevancy.

What it might do to the kids psychologically is anybody's guess. Society is probably saved today by the fact that most youngsters take on their own personalities and develop their own individuality.

Would they do the same if they were a twin of one or the other parent? It might be a good thing in some cases if they did not but it would be a tragedy in other cases. From generation to generation, you can generally see some improvement in the human race, but all that could be reversed with the cloning process.

The whole thing kind of boggles the mind, even without getting into the really serious social dangers of which Francouer warned. But with a little luck, the problems are far enough away that we can pass them on as a legacy to our children, many of whom will no doubt be thankful that this scientific breakthrough came no earlier in the history of the world.

Houses Of Ill Repute
On Federal Property

WASHINGTON — A bawdy house has now been discovered on a federal mining claim and, by all accounts, it's a good mine (the bordello, not the claim).

Three lovely ladies, under the management of Madam Erika Borg, have struck it rich on a federal tract not far from Basalt, Nev. A sheepish Interior Department spokesman acknowledged that the government has been their landlord for some three years.

This is the second house of joy we have discovered on federal property in recent days. We reported that another madam, Beverly Harrell, was operating a bordello on 3.75 acres she has leased from the Interior Department near Lida Junction, Nev.

After learning of our story, federal officials, blushing furiously, tried to close her down. But the determined madam raised a howl about her inalienable rights and won a stay while her case is appealed. Meanwhile, Cottontail Ranch, as her establishment is called, is packing in more customers than ever.

Miss Harrell's unique ranch, which consists of a few neat trailers and a seductive bar, is larger than Miss Borg's two-trailer operation. But Miss Borg's fancy ladies are making more money, at least, than the miners in those parts.

The two demurely decorated trailers are situated on a mining claim taken out by Greco, Inc., of Los Angeles. This is a subsidiary of the respected General Refractories, whose annual report lists many high-sounding enterprises but omits any mention of the world's oldest profession.

The Interior Department's official guidelines on mining claims declares solemnly that "the basic objective is to obtain optimum benefits for the general public by . . . using all of the resources on public lands in the best possible combination." But those who wrote the regulations, presumably, didn't have prostitution in mind.

Mike Jones, the Interior Department's local land manager, told us he has high hopes that Greco will evict the ladies. Greco's vice president, Richard Funk, suggested it was up to the Interior Department to drive off "the undesirable neighbors."

"But I assume," he offered helpfully, "we will have to cooperate and evict them."

The defiant Miss Borg disputes anybody's right to kick her off the land. Indignantly, she told my associate, Les Whiten: "We don't pay kickbacks. We don't steal. We don't cheat. How many other businesses can say the same?"

She suggested, with a snort, that the prostitution her ladies practice is no worse than the prostitution of some politicians she knows.

The ways have been greased for 55,000 Alaskan Indians, Eskimos and Aleuts to get 40 million acres of Alaskan land under a native claims bill now awaiting final congressional action. This would seem to be a well-deserved settlement for the natives who have lived on the land for 6,000 years. But the behind-the-scenes lobbying has been done by greedy Alaskan land speculators and oil moguls.

They plan to hornswoggle the natives, who have an average fourth-grade education, into turning the land over to them as soon as the bill passes. Conservationists have wisely urged land-use amendments to the bill to protect both the natives and the land from the exploiters.

'Nothing Seems Frozen Here'

Nobel Choices Controversial

A communist poet whose works inspired great change in his native Chile won this year's Nobel Prize in Literature and a socialist whose efforts at reconciliation have not yet borne fruit is the Nobel Peace Prize laureate.

Admitting that Chilean Pablo Neruda is a "controversial author," the Swedish Academy of Letters nevertheless declared that he is as strong a nationalist as a communist. The disclaimer is really unnecessary. Some of Neruda's poetry is anti-American and his writings helped sway public opinion to bring the first Marxist government in Chile's history to power last year. But in appreciating the award, it can be surmised that explaining the nature of man, not barricade politics, is his life's work and that human dignity, not political labels, is most important to him.

Of recent Peace Prize laureates, last year's winner, Norman Borlaug, an American agricultural expert, was honored for developing better strains of wheat capable of greater yields to help feed the world's starving. The late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. won his Nobel prize for his struggle to bring equality to black America.

West German Chancellor Willy Brandt becomes the first head of state in 50 years to be so honored. The Norwegian Parliament paid tribute to Brandt's efforts in creating the "pre-conditions . . . for a political and military relaxation of tension between East and West Europe." He was also cited for signing the nuclear non-proliferation treaty and his work "to secure for the people of West Berlin the human rights of personal security and full freedom of movement."

Picking Brandt at a time when his "Ostpolitik" has not proved itself is unusual, but the Nobel committee said he was an easy choice. Certainly no other policy has met with any success in relaxing tensions between old enemies in Europe. And the fact that Brandt had the courage to chart a course that was not overwhelmingly popular in West Germany and which stirred suspicion among his allies and that he will undoubtedly be encouraged to greater efforts by the honor makes his choice a commendable one.

Clarification Needed

The Nebraska State Education Association, joining other teacher organizations across the country which have initiated similar efforts, is planning to file a suit this week seeking to clarify the status of Nebraska teachers' salaries in the wage-price freeze.

The principle issue entails the determination of whether teachers' contracted-for wage increases should be granted; the inference being that the Nixon administration has no power to interfere in private contracts.

Without commenting further on the observation that a voluntary spirit of cooperation and sacrifice was necessary to make the freeze strategy truly effective in combating inflation, we believe that the proposed lawsuit has merit in that it should help untangle the knotty problems facing school districts, one of which is taxing for money not spent.

Aside from settling the question of retroactive pay — which is what the lawsuit really involves and which has been forbidden by the Cost of Living Council, other problems became apparent as the new economic game plan unfolded — problems which confused the wage earner and the consumer. A quicker response from the top on how the new policy would be applied in specific instances would have made Phase One more effective and palatable.

Phase Two at this point is still mostly a mystery. If endless litigation and a loss of faith in the policy's equity are to be avoided, ready answers from the Cost of Living Council, the Pay Board and the Price Commission will be a necessity.

A Shifting Of Relationships With Other Nations
Turns Friends Into Adversaries, And Vice Versa

PARIS — At home the United States has frozen wages and prices but abroad there is an opposite trend. President Nixon is deliberately unfreezing our overseas position. Both the American dollar and American diplomacy are afloat.

For many months the President has obviously been planning the dramatic moves and journeys in which he is now involved. Last March 12 he told me: "We must continue our Soviet negotiations and open the door to cooperation in China. And in this way there will be a chance of building a world that is relatively peaceful." He added that the Vietnam war was ending and would not be a political issue next year: "In fact, I seriously doubt that we will ever have another war."

The business of creating a new relationship with nations long regarded as our principal adversaries does not automatically presuppose cooling off toward our principal friends. But, whether the President wishes it or not, there is bound to be some change.

The emphasis of U.S.

diplomatic concern has been devoted for years to relations with Britain, Western Europe, Canada, Japan and, to a surprising degree, India. Israel has also been a primary source of attention and we still hope to defuse the explosive Middle East situation.

Now allied relations are starting to show signs of change, even before Nixon takes off on his sensational tour of communist superpower capitals. There has been a sag in traditional U.S.-Canadian friendship. Likewise, while Washington and London remain loyal chums, the British drive toward Europe's Common Market has inevitably loosened ties to the U.S. A writer in the London Observer commented this week:

"As Britain moves closer to Europe, her relations with both the Soviet Union and the United States seem to be near their lowest point in years . . . In the trade conflict which threatens to embitter relations between the European Common Market countries and the United States, Britain is inevitably siding with the Europeans. Over China there is also a parting of the ways."

U.S. friendship with Western Europe has somehow seemed a bit more sour since the currency crisis became dramatic. Furthermore, American influence in India has virtually vanished. India is no longer regarded by Washington as a laboratory experiment where we can prove that democracy works with both freedom and stability in a massive country—thus offsetting the Chinese example to developing lands.

We never suited our Indian policy to our Indian dream, poisoning the former by our parallel Pakistan policy. Today Washington regards once-neutralist India as virtually a Soviet satellite.

As for Japan—the souring of relations has been distressing. The one-two punch administered by Nixon through failure to give advance notice of his Peking trip after all these years of warning the Japanese to take it easy on China and then by chopping Japanese export markets came at a moment of maximum inconvenience.

Emperor Hirohito was about to take off on his first imperial tour which, apart from an Alaskan airport, where Nixon paid his respects, eluded the U.S. But he attracted a shower of boos from our European allies.

ON TARGET

Oh yes, it's show-off time in Huskerland.

This is the week ABC-TV totes its cameras to Lincoln followed closely by a herd of buffaloes which is pursued not far behind by the Great Pumpkin and assorted witches and ghouls.

That oughta be the strangest scene since the National Geographic Christmas party.

Some helpful hints are in order for show-off time at the stadium on Saturday.

First, you should write your friends and relatives to remind them to be sure and look in.

"Dear friends. As you probably know, the Huskers are going to be on the national tube Saturday from Lincoln.

"I'm going to the game and will attempt to attract the cameraman's attention so I can have to you.

"Keep watching. I'll be in the red hat."

Second, make a sign. Uh, uh, wait a minute. Not that. I mean a printed sign.

You can say anything you want to on the sign . . . but the secret to getting your work of art on camera is to add a thoughtful little note that says "We Love ABC" or "Welcome, ABC." Then you're a cinch to make the big time.

You can flash the usual stuff. Like "Hi, Mom" or "Hi, Dad — Send Money." Or, of course, "Go Big Red" and "We're Number One."

But let's try some original ones too. Huh, gang?

Boost the Big Eight if you like with "Nebraska One, Oklahoma Two, Colorado Three, Vikings Fourth." Or "Notre Dame Would be Fighting Iowa State for Fourth in the Big Eight," which admittedly is a little long . . . but true.

Proxmire, Stennis 'Grinds' Of Senate

WASHINGTON — When Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., attended high school in Potomac, Pa., his classmates voted him the "biggest grind" because he was too busy hitting the books to have any fun. In the Senate it has pretty much the same.

While any other number of senators are out campaigning, speaking for high fees or simply enjoying life, Proxmire is there, sitting a few rows behind John Stennis, D-Miss., hitting the books that constitute the United States defense budget.

Proxmire and Stennis, and their respective staffs, are the "biggest grinds" in the Senate. On any day recently you would find both of them on the floor, arguing with each other about defense policy.

Many people think Proxmire wins the arguments. But Stennis, the chairman of the Armed Services Committee, almost always wins the roll-call votes that follow.

Recently was a good exam-

"Notre Who?" if bugging the Irish is your bag.

Or, looking ahead (the cardinal sin among football teams, if not their fans), you could try something like "Oklahoma . . . K...O."

Better yet: "We're Gonna Break the Wishbone on Thanksgiving Day." Hey, I like that one.

"Make a Wish. Break the Bone. It's STILL Number One That We Own."

Or: "Thanksgiving Day — the Conquest of Norman."

But that's looking too far down the road. Back to this one with Colorado. They're for real, too.

Perhaps: "Tonight Buffaloes are Extinct."

Well, you've got the idea. Go to it!

Third, be sure and bring all your red for the color cameras. We'll have the fans reaching frantically for their color tone dials from Connecticut to California.

And fourth, bring yourself. No one backs out of this one—rain, snow or shine—to sit home in front of the tube. We're taking roll.

This should be the match of the year at Devaney Bowl. Let's get this buffalo hunt under way.

Moving on to less serious matters, let's throw in another word of warning about the current status of the governor-lieutenant governor team election plan in Nebraska.

Both political parties should take note. Even more so, prospective gubernatorial candidates should consider the way it works.

Primary election voters will choose the lieutenant governor nominees. And that means the gubernatorial nominees will be required to run as a team with whomever the voters pick.

That could be very unfair to a nominee for governor who may be required to team up with an incompetent whose drag on the ticket in the general election could cost him the governorship in a tight race.

Gubernatorial nominees should be permitted to choose their running mates if we are going to pursue the team approach in 1974. They could either choose them, and pair with them, on the primary ballot or freely choose them after the primary and team with them only on the general election ballot.

Either alteration would require a constitutional amendment—proposed in the 1972 legislative session for voter approval next year.

Finishing up: —Sign at the AFL-CIO luncheon for Henry Jackson in Omaha last week: "Don't Blame George. Nixon's the Real Meaney."

— Presidential prospector Sam Yorty now has the endorsement of the Manchester Union Leader, New Hampshire's largest, if not leading, newspaper.

—Why did everyone in the office put on their Halloween masks so soon?

William Proxmire

ple. Proxmire spent his morning conducting a hearing in which he heard stories of waste, mismanagement and collusion in the construction of the mammoth C-5A jet cargo plane, the one that led to $2 billion cost over-runs and near bankruptcy for the Lockheed-Georgia Aircraft Corp.

Then in the afternoon, Proxmire walked briskly to the Senate floor and began a futile argument against the Navy's buying a jet fighter called the F-14 which, according to its critics, threatens to become next year's C-5A in performance failures and cost over-runs, but which is going forward nonetheless.

It could not have been the most rewarding day in the life of Proxmire, who has fought his battles in the Senate for 14 years.

At the morning hearing, Proxmire watched as Henry M. Durham, a former Lockheed C-5A supervisor, held up examples of bolts the company paid $65 apiece for, tools that were purchased specially but never used and job-completion forms that he said were faked so the Air Force could pay Lockheed for work that it had not done.

Durham described the company's reaction when he blew the whistle on all this; he was at first ignored, then glowered at, finally berated out of the firm after 19 years, and then placed under the protection of federal marshals (at Proxmire's request), because his life and those of his family were threatened.

All of this was related to H. Reed Poore, Lockheed vice president and the day's second witness, and an explanation was requested.

Poore, an "avionics" pioneer, admitted that he had no immediate explanations, but would check into the details.

"We have made some mistakes," he said. "We are only people."

As to the rude treatment extended to his former employee, Poore said, "Lockheed-Georgia encourages employees to be aggressive and innovative, but not at the expense of the overall company goal."

Proxmire argued that the process of acquiring weapons at reasonable prices and with reasonable success has faltered and failed.

So he went before the Senate in the afternoon and rolled out his performance charts and over-run projections on the F-14 which the Navy wants to build despite some strong arguments that it won't do the things the Navy wants done.

The F-14 is to be a carrier-based jet fighter designed to defeat Russian fighters that are accompanying bombers. It is being built before the Navy has decided what carriers it will build to put the plane on.

Beyond that, Proxmire said, the administration has a study showing that the F-14, because of load factors, won't perform as well as the old F-4 which it is to replace.

Proxmire pointed out that F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, has expressed his own reservations about the F-14, and left it out of the budget at least for the time being.

Proxmire noted the early warning signs of production snarls and cost over-runs, with the prime contractor, Grumman Aerospace Corp., forecasting significant losses on the F-14 program.

He noted Stennis's own statement in an Armed Services Committee report recommending that the number of planes to be purchased be dropped from 96 to 48:

"The committee wants to make it very clear that this is not a magic solution. Nor does it resolve the potential cost problems of the F-14 program, assuming that the rather dire predictions of future losses by the prime contractor are accurate."

The Senate chamber was almost empty as the debate raged over Proxmire's amendment to delete $801.6 million for the purchase of 48 F-14s from the military procurement bill.

Proxmire argued that the F-14 would be back for more money and would never perform as advertised, just as the C-5A has been back and has flunked its performance test.

Stennis said, "You're not going to find the perfect plane. This one is not. But cut this out of the bill, and you are going to take 10 years to catch up."

In the end, this argument always seems to win with the Senate. When the roll was called, the Proxmire amendment had been defeated, 68 to 21, and Stennis had $801.6 million to begin construction of 48 F-14s.

Proxmire predicts that before the program is through, it will cost $15 billion.

Survey Shows Sharp Decline In Respect For U.S. Institutions

By LOUIS HARRIS

A singular mark of the times is that public respect for the leadership of most major U.S. institutions has fallen years. A majority of Americans drastically in the past five is currently willing to express a "great deal of confidence" in only one profession — medicine — on a list covering 16 different types of activity.

Most precipitous declines have taken place in the levels of trust people have in the military, financial and business communities, scientists and educators. The lowest levels of popular respect are scored by leaders in advertising, trade unions and the mass media.

Back in 1966 and again in a recent Harris Survey this fall, cross sections of the public were asked:

"As far as the people running these institutions are concerned, would you say you have a great deal of confidence, only some confidence, or hardly any confidence at all in them?"

Government: Military leaders were the third most respected group in 1966, regarded with a "great deal of confidence" by 62% of the public. Now they have fallen 37 points in the aftermath of Vietnam. Congress has lost 23 points as against 18 for the federal executive branch. The Supreme Court has lost less ground, but started from a position as the least well regarded of the three branches of government.

Science and Medicine: While respect for doctors generally has held up relatively well, psychiatrists have fallen from grace by 16 points and scientists have dropped a full 24 points. Confidence in technological progress has cooled considerably, although negative feelings toward scientists are less than for most other leadership roles.

The Media: The press, television and advertising brought up the rear five years ago, and by and large they still do. They have fallen less than some, but started from a relatively low position. The number who say they have "hardly any" respect for advertising leaders has risen from 30% to 40% in the past five years, leaving them only slightly better off than union officials.

Educators: Under attack for failure to handle the revolt in the schools and colleges, educators have dropped 24 points on the confidence index since 1966.

Obviously these are not comfortable times for any sector of the American Establishment, judged by the almost universal skepticism of the U.S. public toward the leaders of their principal institutions.

About 6 o'clock the sun began to go down on the Yugoslavia coast. We sat on the terrace of a new tourist hotel, among the pine trees, high over the blue sea. The water lay in smooth swells, 90 miles across to Italy.

The evening became very still; the air magically translucent. Our world was suspended in a clear bubble. Below along the old harbor, behind strong ancient seawalls, the last sun warmed the red-dish-brown-gray rooftops of Dubrovnik's old city.

Along the coast, around the new harbor, we could see the new town: Hotels and houses drawn in sharp charcoal-and-white angles.

Below on the water, now darkening to gunmetal, our cruise ship Mermoz lay gleaming white, dressed in bright flags.

These are occasional sunsets.

Conversation fades; everyone is silent; the clock has stopped. Time and the world are frozen; no one moves; the waiter in the doorway is motionless.

It lasts only a few minutes. One minute? Five? Then there is a subtle change in the light — the diamond flash has disappeared. Everybody sighs. Begins to talk again.

The waiter in the white coat came out of the doorway and poured little tulip glasses of straw-gold plum brandy.

We came sailing up the coast on a blue sky Adriatic day. Green islands — hundreds of them — lie off the coast. The air was wonderfully warm. October is the best cruising month in the Mediterranean.

The Mermoz is making the last three cruises here. She goes to the Caribbean in December. A French ship: champagne to midnight onion soup.

We got off in the new harbor. I changed some travel checks into local dinars — 15 to the dollar. Which I didn't spend. Couldn't change back. And the banks in Athens wouldn't change them into drachmae.

The old city is fortified with thick walls. Streets are narrow — no cars enter the old town. There are antique bridges and drawbridges. Palaces from 1500 and towers from 1400. Porticos of arcades were Rectors of Dubrovnik walked and talked of impending raids from the maritime powers of Venice.

Ramparts enclose the town for a mile and a half. You can walk them. Passing guard towers and ancient forts where, I expect, they threw out rocks and poured down boiling oil.

Dubrovnik, said the driver, escaped the Turkish occupation of the Balkans and Greece. "But there are villages back in the hills that preserve the Turkish culture."

He was 30. Had worked seven years for better wages in Germany. Came back "because it is my home, and I want my children to go to school here."

Many Yugoslavs come back from the U.S., he said. "They can live here so cheaply on what they save."

I said: "How much is cheap?"

He said: "For a nice house. A car. To eat. Maybe $200 a month." He said: "We escape the cold weather here." (Dubrovnik suburbs are full of orange and lemon trees. There are many date palms.)

He drove me around tourist hotels. Apparently Dubrovnik gets a lot of tourists. Most of the hotels were without character. A bunch of planned concrete, using all space economically. Lobbies that felt cold and unloved.

He was proud of them though. It was his town.

He saved the best for last: It was worth it for that golden moment of sunset, when the spell was cast, and the Princess lay sleeping in the magic castle.

He drove me back to the ship where I paid him and we shook hands. And I climbed up to the pool deck in the darkening night, on the bright ship where the music was playing, and the champagne bubbled like sunlight.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Monday

Sagittarians can be fine athletes—but natives of this sign can also be found in abundance in publishing and printing industries. These persons love to teach, often procrastinate, are lucky money matters for Scorpio, are aided financially by Capricorn. Sagittarians are physically attracted to Aries—and often exert a hypnotic effect on those born under Leo.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Logjam is broken, you get moving. Key is to obtain sense of direction. Friend could unknowingly interfere with partnership, special agreement. Protect your interests. Finish project.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Temptation is to take worn path. Key, however, is to take a chance. Means break new ground. Your principles will stand up under scrutiny. Know this and be confident. Unusual and is forthcoming.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your natural enthusiasm surfaces. You can make friends and influence people. Key is willingness to share knowledge, to learn by teaching. Accent is on unusual relationship with young person.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): Conditions at home subject to sudden change. Stress flexibility. Be gracious in dealing with male, business partner. You gain most by being diplomatic. Contract is subject to serious review.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): Family member may act in eccentric manner. Maintain control over emotions. Avoid basing conclusions on inconclusive data. Key is to be thorough—and patient. Call or message can be important.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Financial gain indicated if you are creative in approach. Means accept changes, imprint your own style. Gemini person plays prominent role. Surprise is due from associate, co-worker. It's pleasant.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Unsettling conditions dominate at home base. Exchange of views should not be permitted to deteriorate into battle. Obtain hint from Leo message. Some around you say what they do not mean.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Avoid tendency to see situations, persons in nonrealistic light. Key is to be perceptive. Accent is on family social, maintain balance, calm. Keep confidences. Don't reveal all you know.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You gain if you finish what is started. Leaving task incomplete would be costly. Know this and plan accordingly. Capricorn person plays prominent role. Learn from older individual.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Co-operate with Sagittarian. Emphasis is on making favorable impression. One in authority is considering a bonus or promotion. In personal area, loved one pays meaningful compliment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Light touch is best approach. Emphasis is on articulating desires. Long-distance communications are featured. Find out what it is you really need. Then sight goal—and do after it. You can succeed.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Friend can act as arbitrator. If reasonable, you gain. Otherwise, pride could throw you for money loss. Weigh various possibilities. Some wishes now can be transformed into realities.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you tend to be introspective—you are basically a creative, thoughtful individual. You have recently taken on more responsibility. But your efforts are due to bear fruit. You harmonize especially well with those born under Cancer and Pisces.

Photographer Denies Bothering Jackie. 2 Kids

New York (UPI) — A freelance photographer entered a general denial to charges that he had been harassing Mrs. Jackie Kennedy Onassis and her two children.

Last week, Federal Judge Irving Ben Cooper issued an order which temporarily restrained Ronald E. Galella from "jumping out" at the children and generally acting in a manner "so dangerous" that it interfered with the protective duties of Secret Service agents.

In answering papers returned to Cooper Thursday, Galella claimed he was close to the entire family and that "Aristotle Onassis has on several occasions invited me to walk with him around the block — a sort of constitutional he took late at night before retiring."

Tax Research Council Seeks Better Government

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

In an unimposing office on the second floor of the 411 Building, is an organization that prides itself as the public's "Watchdog on Taxes."

To most people, though, it is better known as the Nebraska Tax Research Council, Inc.

Forrest A. Johnson, the Council's executive vice president, says the Council's value lies in the fact that it is the "only statewide, non-profit, non-political, impartial, objective, research and fact-finding organization" on taxes in the state.

Judging from the council's bulletins, the only "non-" the organization does not claim is non-factual.

This rigor to maintain objectivity and factuality is the Council's worth, Johnson says. The council which is now in its 18th year, he continued, is not a lobbying force; it's primary objective is to disseminate information regarding taxes.

"For instance," Johnson says, "we probably won't take a stand on Gov. J. James Exon's initiative petition to eliminate the sales tax on food."

The newsletters and reports the council publishes periodically, the council says, are intended to promote

Forrest A. Johnson

"Better Government at a Better Price" and not a particular political cause.

This desire for economy and effectiveness has created a rather unlikely alliance in terms of membership.

Individual taxpayers and corporations, farmers and manufacturers, retailers and consumers, ranchers and railroads, urban and rural interests — all belong to the council.

And considering the council's objectives, it is not hard to see how such unlikely partnership could evolve.

The council's primary purpose, it states, is to control "unnecessary expenditure and excessive taxation" and promote "efficiency in public administration."

Secondly, it was created to "investigate, study and advocate methods of public administration . . . for the best interests of the public."

Perhaps, its most ambitious objective is to "conduct research on simplification and equalization of the tax structure of Nebraska" — something the Legislature has been trying to bring about for years.

In spite of the fact that Johnson, a former state tax commissioner and a Creighton Law School graduate, is the only full-time employee, the council claims a number of "tax accomplishments."

Among the accomplishments they list are:

— Sponsorship the 1969 Uniform Budget Law which made it possible for taxpayers to obtain pertinent information regarding budgets.

— Sponsored and testified in favor of 1969 LB1405 which provided penalties for failure of municipalities to make and file audits.

— Offered recommendations which were incorporated into LB20 in an attempt to obtain uniform tax equalization procedures.

These accomplishments, the council's brochure says, are only possible through a high degree of citizen participation in government:

"To be effective, citizens must be armed with factual data regarding pressing governmental problems."

STUDENTS PARTICIPATE IN PAPER CAPER

"Join the great paper caper" is the theme of a paper recycling drive underway at Lincoln's Calvert Elementary School, where students joined recently to load up the first week's collection in the ecology campaign. On hand to help out were second graders Bob Seamark, Davey Buresh, Todd Sorensen, Gayla Sturdy, Dorothy Chung and Carol Blunk, from left. The pupils were wearing their black masks, symbols of the "paper caper," and of the advertising campaign the students initiated. The students of teacher Kay Keene are helping load the papers into a Salvation Army truck, which will collect the recycling materials each Friday. (Star Photo).

One-Box Pheasant Hunt Is Scheduled

Broken Bow — Gala plans are under way here for the eleventh annual four-day One-Box Pheasant Hunt, scheduled Nov. 11-14.

At least six teams have notified One-Box officials of their intent to participate in the event which throughout the years has attracted well known national and state participants, including governors and astronauts.

Chief executives from Nebraska, New Mexico and Oklahoma are expected to captain their respective teams with several other states also sending representatives.

Hunting companions for Nebraska's Gov. J. James Exon will be Robert Halstead of Broken Bow, Bob Monroe of Kearney, Phil Giltner of Omaha and Dr. Philippe Schubik of the Eppeley Cancer Research and allied Diseases in Omaha.

Gov. Bruce King will head the New Mexico team, and Gov. David Hall of Oklahoma will be in charge of his group.

A pending trip to Russia will prevent Gov. Slan Hathaway of Wyoming from taking part in the hunt. However, Charles Crowell, president of the Game and Fish Commission for Wyoming, will replace Hathaway, a native Nebraskan, as captain of the Wyoming team.

The Missouri team will be captained by Harold Insley, representing a Kansas City television station.

From California will come a team of shooters, the top team in the 1968 Olympics at Mexico City.

A team of astronauts, subject to change, may include Jerry Carr, Jack Schmidt, Ron Evans, Jack Swigert, Paul Weitz and Jack Lousma. A pending trip to Europe will prevent Al Warden from coming to Broken Bow.

Astronaut Deke Slayton might participate in the hunt, it was reported.

Teams from Minnesota and Illinois are also expected to try a hand in the hunt.

A victory banquet will be staged at 7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 6, at the Elks Club with presentation of trophies to the winning teams.

The following morning an 8 a.m. breakfast is scheduled, sponsored by the Calcutta winner and winning team for team members, past shooters, guides and hosts. This will be followed by the annual past shooter meeting at the One-Box Trap Range.

One-Box officials have been notified that the Blue Angels, Air Force precision fliers, will be unable to attend, but members of the crews are expected to hunt in the area in December.

NMA Planning To Undertake Steps Against Drug Abuse

Kearney — Nebraska Medical Association President Dr. Roger Mason of McCook announced Sunday that the association will undertake a "vigorous" drug abuse control program as part of a state effort to curb drug abuse.

Dr. Mason said the association will ask all physicians to put into effect an "almost total ban" on the prescribing of amphetamines and methamphetamines, prescribing them only under "clearly recognized conditions," where these drugs are indicated.

Mason said the association will appoint a new Drug Abuse Education Committee composed of member physicians. He added that various subcommittees probably also will be established.

The announcement followed approval of a "Drug Attack" program by the house of delegates, the association's policy making body, meeting here Sunday.

Dr. Mason said the association is "greatly concerned" about the drug abuse problem.

"We want to do all we can as individual physicians and as the association of physicians, to help meet the problem head on."

The president said production of amphetamines must be cut down and physicians must be cautious about prescribing the drugs.

He called on every county medical society in the state to form a drug abuse committee to point out both the lifesaving potential and dangers of drugs.

The spring meeting of the association will be held in Lincoln next spring.

A convention committee will seek to obtain Vice President Spiro Agnew as a speaker and one of the astronauts for a program on exercise and physical fitness.

Omaha To Get $5.9 Million In Highway User Revenues

Omaha — City Finance Director Edwin J. Hewitt says Omaha will receive about $5.9 million, or nearly twice as much as two years ago, for street maintenance and improvements from state highway user collections.

Hewitt said Omaha received $3.9 million two years ago. He said the increased amount means "the city is getting a fair shake when you consider that other highway money also is spent in Omaha."

The finance director said other funds include state and federal money that goes for state, U.S. and interstate highway projects within the city limits.

He said the money for these projects is not funneled through the city.

City Public Works Director Gene E. Jordan also said Omaha fares much better in the distribution of state highway money than it did several years ago.

Hewitt and Jordan said the main factor in the fund increase is a change in the formula for distributing highway user revenue to the state, counties and cities. The change was made by the 1969 legislature.

Before the change, the State Roads Department received 53%, 36% going to counties and the remaining 11% to cities.

Under the new formula, the state this year gets 53 1/3%. The cities' share is to gradually increase until, starting in 1974, the counties and cities each will receive 23 1/3%.

The amount each city receives is based on its population, motor vehicle registration and miles of streets.

The highway user revenue comes from gas taxes, motor vehicle registrations and motor vehicle sales taxes.

Improvement Program Set At Foundry

Hastings — A two-year $200,000 improvement program including anti-pollution steps has been announced by the Western Land Roller Co. of Hastings.

Installation of an anti-pollution device to control smoke from its foundry is planned within the next year, company officials revealed.

It is the first announced anti-pollution effort of such magnitude in Hastings. Company officials are hopeful the undertaking will provide leadership for other anti-pollution efforts in the community.

A farm implement and deep well turbine pump manufacturing company, Western Land has been criticized in the past for "not doing anything about its pollution problem."

Vern Anderson, vice president of the firm, said initial cost of the anti-pollution device will be near $80,000. An additional $15,000 may be required if the firm decides it must also install a new cupola or "chimney" for the plant.

Paunch Manure Disposal In Park Causes Concern

Omaha — Vincent H. Dreeszen, director of conservation and survey for the University of Nebraska, says he's concerned about burying of paunch manure in Tranquilly Park by the City of Omaha.

Dreeszen said the park is not a proper disposal site because it is part of the Papillion Creek valley and because of the soil conditions in the area.

He said he realized that the city must dispose of the paunch manure and that no one wants it near his property.

But he said there is potential danger to the ground and surface waters near the Tranquilly site. Dreeszen said continued burying will increase the possibility that wells and other water will be contaminated from nitrates and other chemicals in the manure.

City tests so far have not shown contamination, but Dreeszen said, "It is a slow process before pollution shows up."

The recent takeover of the state's meat inspection system has led some state house character to express their long standing resentment of the federal government peeking over the shoulders of the state inspectors and state regulatory operations in general.

A big part of the argument for the federal inspection plan is to eliminate the duplication. It can also be argued with reasonableness that perhaps it is well to keep an eye on any regulatory agency that is state-operated in view of the political pressures that are applied to them locally. The big question is quite different however.

Just who is watching the watchers? The grand jury in Boston is alleged to have discovered some unsuspected inspectors who failed in their duties.

It would seem to us that there might be some merit in some sort of system that would allow the states to inspect the efficiency of the federal regulatory systems. It could very easily degenerate into a political name-calling affair, but some kind of consumer protection group might be able to accomplish this in a creditable manner.

There is nothing much new on the irrigation power problem in the state except a simple observation that the power companies are faced with the same problems farmers have had all along. They don't want to build generating plants that operate for only a two- or three-month period each year.

This, however, is exactly the problem the farmer has with most of his machinery. His combine is of use only during harvest, his drill and corn planter at planting time and his power-consuming irrigation system during the two months the unit pumps and distributes water over his crops.

If it is really to the economic advantage of the state to have vastly expanded irrigation, then it should be the state's responsibility to establish short-term power sources that meet the need of the farmers. For that matter, the people who operate air conditioners as well.

The suggestion that a total

Today's hen lives a totally uninteresting, but secure life between the egg and the soup can. She is kept in a cage where she looks up to get a drink, down to find an automatic trough filled with a scientifically blended feed and her eggs are automatically collected, packaged and processed.

study of the economics and availability of energy from all sources in the state is certainly timely and could play a vital role in attracting industry, solving the irrigation power dilemma and guarantee plenty of power and heat in the coldest part of the winter. City folks need that assurance as much as farmers do.

The spring school tour used to include food processing plants such as the local butter, cheese, and poultry processors, and when they were available, a tour of the meat processors.

The big Land O'Lakes dairy processing plants are greatly restricting tours of their plants, keeping people out of food processing areas. The same type of restrictions are being applied to most other food processing plants that have not already had such limitations on non-employee visitors.

The reason is the danger of introducing unwanted bacteria into the company's product, which could not only result in destruction of some product, but perhaps the company as well.

Sales of all products produced by a food company suffer for several months after publicly-announced incidents of quality problems.

For this reason alone, the tours by school children, stockholders and other in-plant visitors are due to become increasingly rare.

New plants will probably include glassed-in visitor areas where they may look and see the operation without interrupting the workers or endangering the food and the company's existence.

Don Walton wrote his Ode to October in a column last week and got me to thinking about fall on the farm. We used to lock up the pullets some time in October after the hen house had a thorough cleaning and nests had new straw installed. Not that the pullets produced many eggs until spring.

It is a far cry from the old days of hunting around the straw pile and in the manger for eggs. Today's hen never gets to taste grasshopper or be chased from the garden.

There used to be a noble contribution to the Sunday supper table with a nice fat roasting hen but today's bird ends up in a can of soup.

Farming is not only a lot more expensive than it used to be, it doesn't seem to be as much fun anymore either.

5-Year-Old Boy Put In Custody Of Grandparents

Seneca, Kan. — Nemaha County Juvenile Court Judge Francis A. Holthaus has declared five-year-old Nicky Bernhardt a dependent and neglected child and has placed the boy in the custody of his maternal grandparents.

The boy's mother Mary Lou Bernhardt of Falls City, Neb., was fatally wounded Aug. 22 at her home. Donald Bernhardt, 34, the child's father and the woman's estranged husband, has been charged with first-degree murder in connection with the shooting.

Bernhardt has pleaded innocent to the charge and is being held in lieu of $35,000 bond in Falls City.

Judge Holthaus held that his court had jurisdiction over the child's case under Kansas statutes and made the child a ward of the court. He put Nicky in the care of Mr. and Mrs. Dana McKenney of Sabetha.

Bernhardt had sought to have his son put in the custody of Bernhardt's brother, Paul, and a petition asking that Paul Bernhardt be named the child's legal guardian is pending in Richardson county Court in Falls City.

Nixon Pressured To Pullout Troops

Washington (AP) — A steadily mounting House vote less than 30 short of endorsing an Indochina war deadline is pressuring President Nixon to announce his own withdrawal date Nov. 15.

Pentagon sources indicate the President could announce a total American ground combat withdrawal from Vietnam by next July if not an even more rapid pullout. The White House won't say how dramatic the Nov. 15 announcement will be.

But Tuesday's House vote on accepting the Senate's six-month deadline — so close that House leaders wouldn't risk a direct vote — made clear Congress is close to approving a deadline if Nixon doesn't.

"That may have been our last gasp," a White House aide said of Tuesday's vote.

Republicans leaders blocked a direct up-or-down vote but antiwar forces mustered their biggest vote yet on a 215-193 rejection of a procedural effort to override the leaders and force a direct vote.

The House margin against war deadlines has been closing fast — from 254-158 rejection last June 17 to a Dec. 31 pullout to 219-175 rejection last June 28 of a nine-month deadline to Tuesday's 215-193 vote.

None of these deadlines would have been binding on the President but would have been difficult for him not to follow.

At least two Democratic leaders — House Armed Services Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., and Whip Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass. — say the House may already have turned around and might have accepted the six-month pullout Tuesday on a direct vote.

But half a dozen White House lobbyists spent a week making the only nearly complete House nose count before Tuesday's vote and they say it accurately reflected a 23-vote margin against the deadline.

They aren't confident they can hold that margin. "Some of the votes are soft," said one.

Associated Press interviews found that at least 13 congressmen, 9 Democrats and Republicans, shifted their votes in favor of the six-month date after opposing the nine-month pullout last June.

All said they switched either because the war is ending anyway or they were disenchanted by South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu's one-man re-election or both.

"That election showed we have a virtual dictatorship over there," said Rep. Tim Lee Carter, R-Ky., one of the switchers. "Besides that, it's just time to get out. That war's nothing but a sinkhole for everything we have."

Only 170 House Votes

Even the House antiwar forces estimate they have only about 170 House votes for actually cutting off funds to halt the war.

Thus one possibility that Pentagon sources call realistic is an announcement by President Nixon Nov. 15 of total U.S. combat withdrawal from Vietnam by July, leaving a residual force of 40,000 to 50,000 U.S. troops and minimum air cover.

The next House vote in sight is on a pending Senate amendment to this year's foreign-aid bill calling for a six-month withdrawal and cutting off all war funds except those needed to pull U.S. forces out.

The Senate appears likely to send that mandate to the House before Nov. 15 but even antiwar forces do not believe the House is ready to go that far.

French Beef-Up Security For Brezhnev Visit

Paris (AP) — The French mobilized a massive security apparatus Sunday to protect the Soviet Communist party chief, Leonid I. Brezhnev, during his stay here this week.

Sources involved in the preparation said up to 30 companies of riot police and 15 units of gendarmes were being brought in from the provinces to supplement the already large contingent of Paris police.

In addition, hundreds of plain-clothes detectives were burrowing into possible sources of trouble or were alerted to mix with sidewalk crowds where they could block any attempt to harm Brezhnev.

In the minds of both French and Soviet security forces was the attack on Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin by a Hungarian nationalist in Ottawa last Monday.

French sources said an isolated act by an East European emigre was feared far more than the anti-Brezhnev demonstrations threatened by Jewish groups, the far right or leftist extremists.

The Russians showed their concern following the Kosygin incident by presenting the French a list of emigres they wanted removed from the capital. As a result, 49 former residents of eastern Europe were rounded up by police and sent to Corsica. They will be kept on the Mediterranean island for the duration of the visit, which begins on Monday.

The Russians also informed the French that the size of Brezhnev's personal bodyguard was being increased from three to 10.

This is Brezhnev's first visit to the West as general secretary of Russia's ruling party and it poses problems he has never had to face before.

A schedule of Brezhnev's hour-by-hour movements has been published in the French press, as it would be for any other visitor of his rank. The schedule includes public appearances at the Arc de Triomphe, a visit to city hall, the Louvre an automobile plant and a day in Marseille.

Brides Of Late Autumn

On Saturday evening, Oct. 23, the wedding of Miss Paula Dale Gifford, daughter of Mrs. Hugo Haase of Lincoln and Dale F. Gifford of Riverside, Calif., to Richard Allen Fossler of Lincoln, son of Mr. and Mrs. Evert Fossler of Beatrice, took place at St. John's Lutheran Church in Beatrice. The Rev. Alton W. Schwandt solemnized the 7 o'clock ceremony.

Miss Karen Fossler, sister of the bridegroom, was the maid of honor and only attendant.

Orvi Fossler of Lincoln served as best man, and Eugene Fossler, also of Lincoln seated the guests.

White organza, accented with satin banding and embroidery, fashioned the gown chosen by the bride. Designed in the Empire mode the bodice was styled with a mandarin collar of the embroidery, and Bishop sleeves. The embroidery-framed bands of satin formed twin panels which extended from shoulder height on both the front and back of the gown to the hem of the A-line skirt which was completed with a chapel train. Medallions of Venise lace ornamented the satin profile which held to the head her shoulder-length veil, and she carried a Colonial bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and white carnations.

Mr. Fossler and his bride will reside at 1520 So. 21st St. in Lincoln. The bridegroom is a graduate of the Lincoln School of Commerce.

With Msgr. John S. Flynn solemnizing the 7:30 o'clock ceremony, the marriage of Miss Jodey Hempel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hempel, to Lester Hillis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hillis of Sprague, took place at St. Mary's Church on Saturday evening, Oct. 23.

The threesome of attendants included Mrs. Donald Klippert of London, England, who was her sister's matron of honor, and bridesmaids Miss Connie Egger of Martell and Miss Peggy Mertens.

Roger Rickman of Princeton served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers were Lt. Donald Klippert of London, England; Jerry Velder, John Hempel of Topeka, Kan., brother of the bride; Garold Judson and Richard Egger, both of Sprague.

For her wedding the bride chose a skimmer gown of peau taffeta and lace. The lace, patterned with pearls and crystal fashioned the high collar and the long sleeves of the gown worn under a sleeveless peau taffeta coat which was deeply yoked with the jeweled lace. Appliques of the lace dotted the full length coat which extended into an aisle-wide cotillion train. A cluster of lace petals held she carried a bouquet of white roses and in place her bouffant, elbow-length veil, and white chrysanthemums.

Upon their return from a honeymoon trip Mr. Hillis and his bride will reside at Sprague.

Builders Bureau Party

For all practical purposes every weekend begins on Friday. So, we can say without contradiction that the past weekend was an exceedingly busy one — even with Big Red out of town.

One of the busiest spots in town last Friday evening was the Elks Club and this was due to the fact that the Builders Bureau was having its third annual party.

On hand for the dinner dance and the program were members of the Builders Bureau and their wives — 300 people, all in all.

There was special entertainment of course. There also was an announcement made by immediate past president, and the presentation of the new officers.

The new official staff of the Builders Bureau includes Boyd Elliott of the Olson Construction Co., president; Robert Chase of The Ad-A-Lite Electric Co., vice-president; John Bordogna, Bordogna Painting Contractor, treasurer and Mrs. Kayla M. Paswaters who was re-elected executive secretary. The newly elected board of directors is composed of Jack Way of the Abel Investment Co.; Dale Reinhardt of Reinhardt Bros. P&H; Roy Chapman of the Chapman Savidge Refrigeration Co.;

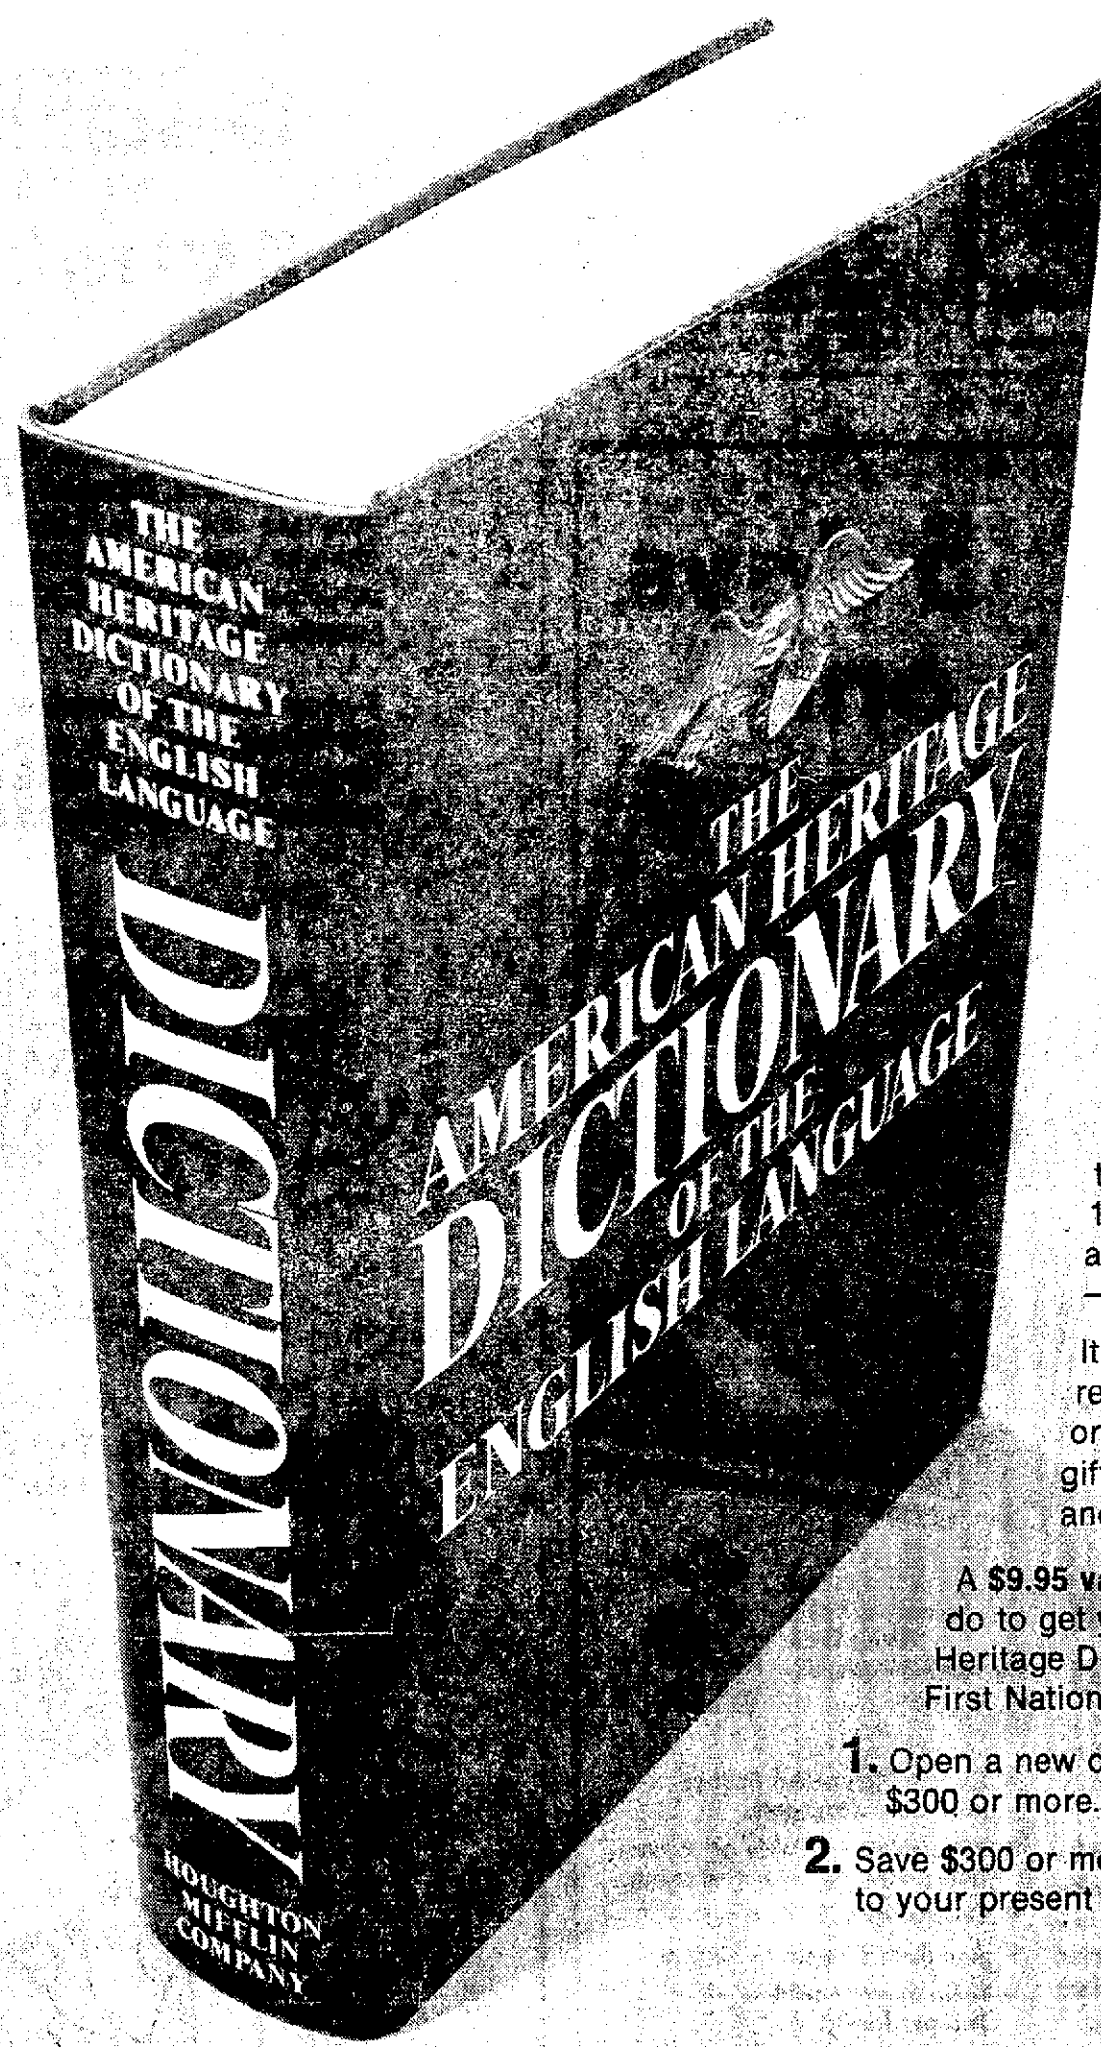

Jack Christiansen of the Pittsburg Plate Glass Co.; — and Jack Sinner of the Cornhusker Heating & Air Conditioning Co., who had just bowed out as president of the bureau.

right are Mrs. John Bordogna, Mr. Bordogna, Mrs. Paswaters, and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Eichelberger.

AROUND TOWN

Saturdays are very special days for all Nebraska at this particular season, but we know a lady for whom last Saturday was more than just special — It was extra-special.

Mrs. Emma Solheim, you see, is a rabid Big Red fan. She makes herself comfortable in her wheel chair and listens intently, and she brooks no interruptions during the game. She wants to keep her ears on "what my boys" are doing.

The extra-special factor last Saturday had to do with Mrs. Solheim's birthday — She was 84 years old.

In celebration of the birthday anniversary Mrs. Solheim's son-in-law and daughter, Mrs. Claud R. Hof were host and hostess at a family dinner at their home. We might add that dinner was not served until AFTER the Nebraska-Oklahoma State game. Mrs. Solheim didn't want to miss one play that "her boys" made.

Mrs. Solheim, who was born the year of the great blizzard, has 11 grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren, and some of them attended the birthday party.

The wedding of Miss Susan Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Fuller, and Gene Gruis of Lincoln, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lauren Gruis of San Pablo, Calif., took place on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 23, at St. Paul Methodist Church.

Mrs. Ron Bumgarner and Mrs. Shannon Haval were the bridesmaids and only attendants.

Gary Gruis of Garland, Tex., served as best man, and the ushers included Don Fuller, Dwight Keith, Lynn Wilson, and Robert Fuller of Farnam.

The bride appeared in a gown of organza over taffeta, patterned with Venetian lace. The lace patterned the bodice, fashioned with an oval neckline, and long sleeves. The A-line skirt was completed with a cathedral-length train ornamented with appliques of pearls. Her mantilla veil of illusion was bordered with lace and she carried a bouquet of orchids and roses.

Mr. Gruis and his bride will reside in Lincoln.

Abby: her error

DEAR ABBY: Last night I left my 15-month-old baby in the care of my regular baby-sitter from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. (The sitter is 16.)

My husband works the third shift, and he came home unexpectedly about 8 p.m. and went to bed.

When I got home at 9 p.m., my baby was gone and so was the baby sitter. I immediately called the sitter's mother who told me that she had come and gotten her daughter and taken my baby home with them because she (the sitter's mother) didn't want her daughter sitting while my husband was home!

The mother said she had nothing against my husband personally, but she had to look out for her daughter's welfare. When my husband heard this he just about hit the ceiling, and of course I was hurt. Is there something wrong with our attitude, Abby? Or is there something wrong with hers?

WIFE AND MOTHER

DEAR WIFE: Hers.

DEAR ABBY: My husband had one ear pierced when he was in the Army, and he always wears a gold earring in it. He knows I don't like it, but he likes it and continues to wear it anyway.

I have tried nagging him about it, and also ignoring it, and then I just gave up. The only thing I ask of him is to please not wear it when he comes around my place of work. He has paid no attention to my request and when he shows up where I work with that earring on, everyone snickers and makes remarks.

Now I have decided to do something that will embarrass him as much as he is embarrassing me without embarassing myself. Have you any suggestions? Thanks.

HATES EARRINGS ON MEN

DEAR HATES: That's a poor solution. It will boomerang. If you embarrass him in retaliation, he will feel justified in continuing to embarrass you.

The bidding:

| North | East | South  | West |
|-------|------|--------|------|
| 1♠    | Pass | 3♣     | 3♥   |
| 4♥    | Pass | 4NT    | 6♥   |
| Pass  | Dble | 7NT    | Pass |
| Pass  | Pass | Redble | Dble |

The importance of the opening lead is well illustrated in this deal from a match between Great Britain and Belgium.

At the first table, with Belgium North-South, the bidding went as shown. The British East-West pair undoubtedly did a lot of bidding with their 10 points, capitalizing on the vulnerability in an effort to steer the opponents to a bad contract.

And in a sense they succeeded — for South got to seven notrump redoubled — but, unfortunately, West, faced with a difficult choice, led a diamond and declarer made the grand slam for a score of 2,930 points.

Had West led a spade, South would have gone down two — 1,000 points. Thus, in one play, West lost 3,930 points!

At the second table, the bidding went: 1♠, 3♣, 3♦, 4♣, 4♦, 4NT, 6♣. The Belgian West led a heart and the British declarer won with the queen, drew trumps, and then led the king of diamonds, overtaking it with the ace and hoping to run the suit.

But East showed up with four to the ten, and though South was able to dispose of two spades on the Q-J of diamonds, he lost a spade and a heart to go down one.

So the Belgians scored another 100 points to produce a net gain of 3,030 points.

Declarer could have made the slam by ruffing a heart at trick two and overtaking dummy's king of clubs to draw trumps. This method of play would have subjected him to a 4-1 trump break, instead of a 4-1 diamond break, but in the actual hand this course of play would have succeeded.

Nixon Is Optimistic About Prospects For Lasting Peace

Washington — President Nixon expressed optimism Sunday about the prospects for lasting peace, but at the same time he warned that "there are great differences" between the government of the United States and those of the Soviet Union and China.

In a brief radio address marking Veterans Day, which he delivered from Camp David, the presidential retreat near Thurmont, Md., Nixon said that his trips next year to Peking and Moscow "are directed toward" the goal of peace.

But he added: "We go with no false hopes, and we intend to leave behind us in America no unrealistic expectations."

Nixon also pledged his concern for the returning veterans of the war in Vietnam, which he called "the most publicized and least understood war in our history."

He asked all Americans to join him in a commitment "to do all that we can to insure that those who have borne the burdens of war are not made, bear disproportionately the burdens of the peace."

A charge that just such neglect of the needs of Vietnam veterans was occurring was made by Sen. George S. McGovern in a Veterans Day statement issued by his office.

McGovern, who is a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972, said that the nation had "delayed too long" in guaranteeing to present and future Vietnam veterans "the best the nation can offer in health care, employment opportunities and benefits for job training."

In support of his accusation, McGovern cited Labor Department figures that show "three hundred thousand Vietnam veterans among the millions who walk the streets unemployed." He also spoke of thousands of other Vietnam veterans "scarred by drug addiction and other psychological problems (who) are simply not getting the medical treatment they need because funds are short and facilities inadequate."

Nixon, in effect, directly answered the senator.

He noted that, in June, he had ordered the Labor Department to inaugurate special programs to provide training and jobs for veterans, and added:

"I am happy to report that during July and August alone, more than 121,000 Vietnam-era veterans were placed in jobs or in training for jobs."

Nixon also said that "in addition to jobs and education, we have taken comprehensive steps to provide the best medical care possible, including treatment for drug users."

"But the most appropriate tribute to America's veterans," he continued, "would be to accomplish the secure and lasting peace for which they fought."

"We have before us the best chance in this century to make the present generation of American war veterans the last generation of war veterans."

Nixon listed as examples of progress toward peace the ratification of the treaty to halt proliferation of nuclear weapons; negotiation and signing of the treaty barring the implanting of nuclear weapons on the ocean bottoms; the American renunciation of biological and toxin weapons; "significant progress" in the strategic arms limitation talks, and "an historic agreement on Berlin."

Charisma Shouldn't Count In Selecting Top Officials

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

If we are to achieve the potentials of the future promise of American life, we should discount charisma in selecting high governmental officials.

Abraham Lincoln, despite his awkwardness and lack of hail-fellow-well-met spirit, nevertheless earned a substantial place in history, and James Madison, an intellectual front runner in the annals of the presidency, depended on mental skill rather than charm.

It is infantile to listen to comment from many who should know better concerning the qualities of public men, and especially those who are seeking the highest office. Those who value charisma more than administrative skill, intellectual prowess, self discipline and creative talents are genuine suckers.

Merryle Rukeyser
Future Promise

Winston Churchill was not lacking in charisma, but his outstanding quality was courage. In his "blood, sweat and tears" speech, Churchill rallied the British people by unafraid facing of realities.

Vote Catchers
Except in direct primary states, hard boiled club house leaders determine the eligibility of aspirants for high office on their vote catching prospects. They cynically respect only prospects for succeeding at the polls.

But in the survival and continued success of free societies, sometimes the runner-up renders a better service to his nation than the successful candidate. If the loser illuminates crucial issues and devotes his energies to circulating unpleasant truths, he may indeed contribute more than the one who gets the largest number of votes.

In finance, as in politics, time tests the credibility of personalities. In stock peddling the glib-talking, blue sky operator frequently sounds more convincing to the unsophisticated than responsible financiers. The charisma contingent is guided by Plato's observation that people prefer beautiful lies to the ugly truth.

More Phrasemaking
But you cannot balance budgets, manage money, and keep human aspirations in balance with capabilities by mere phrasemaking.

As for the time factor, the voters yawned in 1936 when Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, opposing FDR's bid for a second term, predicted that the New Deal program would lead in time to vast depreciation of the dollar. Only Maine and Vermont responded affirmatively, but 35 years later it is clear that Landon's prophecy has been fulfilled.

In these last moving days of TV, radio and syndicated news features, even politicians without inborn charisma seek to achieve it through taking lessons. But the synthetic approach is frustrating. When an able man lacks that type of sales personality, it is shrewder to exploit the absence of that quality rather than try to achieve something that does not come naturally.

News Pressures
With new pressures against the manifest destiny of the United States, it is high time to delineate the nature of desirable national leadership in a more mature manner. It is sheer illusion that a single personality in the White House can do the work of a superman. It is more practical to try to reorganize the presidency.

This writer, with the advantage of having for decades observed the behavior of competent executives in business, concludes that the constitutional setup at Washington should be updated, with the vice president relieved of the irrelevant duty of presiding over the Senate and turned into an executive vice president, with a group of other executives under him responsible for supervising a given number of administrative departments.

Only in the United States is the President expected to fulfill various roles as chief of state, leader of his party, operating chief of the executive department and commander-in-chief of the armed forces. The President must in any circumstance be the final decision maker, but he can be helped in the process by better organization of subordinates with their lines of responsibility carefully delineated.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

For now — from a large, nationally-known company — you can get $10,000 life insurance at low direct rates, so low you'll want to add $5,000 on your wife and $1,000 on each of your children. And you can qualify on the "honor system" right from this page without the usual red tape — without seeing a salesman.

Enroll now and take advantage of this introductory low rate: only $1 for your first month... and you'll get a full $10,000 protection.

How Big Is Your Life Insurance Protection Gap?

Higher prices, higher incomes and higher standards of living have created a fast-widening life insurance protection gap. So much so that if you haven't increased your life insurance in the past year your family is probably under-protected today.

Back in 1950, financial experts recommended that a family man should carry life insurance equal to 2½ times his yearly income. In 1960 they recommended moving up to 3 times income. Today, the experts say your family should now be protected with "life insurance amounting to 5 times your annual income as an absolute minimum."

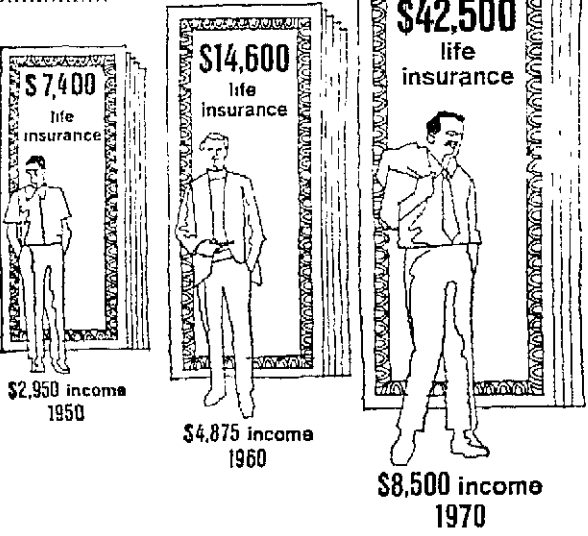

Figure it out for yourself: Add up all your life insurance; then figure your large debts (mortgage, car, etc.). You'll probably be shocked to learn that even "5 times" won't leave your family very much for necessities of life and your children's education. You'll surely see the need for at least $10,000 more protection.

Now Everyone Can Afford $10,000 Extra Protection At These Low Direct Rates

If you're an employee — Chances are you don't carry enough personal life insurance. This plan gives you your own personal policy that you can keep no matter how often you change jobs — an extra $10,000 life insurance over and above any of your company or union benefits — at low direct rates.

If you're an executive — Because your family is used to a high standard of living, the insurance that may have been adequate only a few years ago just isn't enough today. (IRS regulations limit the amount of tax free insurance your company can provide for you.) But now you can easily add an extra $10,000 protection at these low direct rates.

If you're self-employed — You have to provide your own "company benefits" at your own expense. As a business proprietor or a professional practitioner, here for the first time is your opportunity to take advantage of company-type benefit rates an employee gets. Give yourself an extra $10,000 protection at these low direct rates.

Choose The Plan That Suits You Best

FAMILY PLAN
$10,000 for you
$5,000 for your wife
$1,000 for each child

If you have a young growing family, we recommend the Family Plan. You and your wife and all your eligible children — including future additions — are included under one low monthly direct rate. Example: At age 35 your rate is $3.20 + $1.40 for your wife (50% of the $2.80 rate shown for your wife's age of 32) + 32c for your children (10% of your rate) = $4.92 basic monthly rate for your entire family.

HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN
$10,000 for you
$5,000 for your wife

If you haven't started your family yet, or if your children are grown — you'll want the Husband-Wife Plan. You and your wife will be covered under one low direct rate. Example: At age 35 your rate is $3.20 + $1.40 for your wife (50% of the $2.80 rate shown for your wife's age of 32) = $4.60 basic monthly rate for you and your wife.

INDIVIDUAL ADULT PLAN
$10,000 for you

If you're a bachelor, career woman, college student, veteran just out of service, or if you're a family man or woman and just wish to insure yourself — choose the Individual Adult Plan. You can cover yourself for very little money. Example: At age 35 your basic monthly rate is $3.20.

ONE - PARENT PLAN
$10,000 for you
$1,000 for each child

If you are the only parent living with your children, we suggest the One-Parent Plan. You and all your eligible children will be covered under one low monthly direct rate. Example: At age 35 your rate is $3.20 + 32c for your children (10% of your rate) = $3.52 basic monthly rate for you and all your eligible children.

Regardless of your plan, you may pay anyway you choose — monthly, quarterly, semi-annually or annually. A modest 30c service charge is added to payments other than annual.

You Can Change To Another Kind Of Policy Later Children Get A Special Conversion Privilege

If you wish, you can convert to any kind of cash value policy — ordinary, 20-pay, endowment, etc. — any time within 5 years. (This conversion privilege reduces one year for each year you are over age 50 at issue date.) Regardless of your age or health you can convert your full $10,000, your wife her full $5,000, without any qualifications whatsoever.

Special $10,000 Conversion Privilege For Your Children: Each of your children at age 18 can automatically convert to a $10,000 cash value policy without any qualifications at all. This is truly a wonderful future advantage for your children, because it gives the highest value and lowest cost at the earliest adult age!

Full Protection: Your Direct-Rate Life Insurance Plan covers death from any cause — sickness, accident, natural causes. (Suicide is not covered in the first two years.)

Extra Security: No matter how often you change jobs or how poor your health may become — we guarantee, right up to age 65, that we cannot refuse to renew your policy unless we refuse renewal on all policies of this form (PLC-39 Series) in your entire state. And, no change can be made in year-to-year rates unless rates are revised on this form throughout your state. You, of course, may drop your policy any time, for any reason.

You Get These Lower Direct Rates Without Sacrificing Benefits

Not one benefit has been cut out or reduced. The only things we've cut down are our costs of doing business.

By enrolling thousands of people at one time, without using salesmen, we've cut "sales costs" — one of the largest single items of expense in life insurance. Secondly, by using the "honor system" and eliminating expensive examinations, we've cut "issue costs." And finally, because we only insure people in normal, everyday good health, we've been able to cut our rates down even more.

For us, it amounts to higher volume at a lower cost. For you it adds up to maximum benefits at minimum rates.

Direct Personal Service Everywhere Phone "Collect" Any Time

Our biggest "plus" is... DIRECT PERSONAL SERVICE! From our Direct Personal Service Center in Santa Monica, California we serve our many thousands of Direct-Rate policyowners all across America quickly and equally.

Friendly personal service counsellors — expertly trained to help you on any question about your policy — can be called any time from anywhere in the U.S. With your policy you'll receive a special "collect call" number. Whenever you call you'll be greeted by your personal service counsellor who will be ready to give you all the information you need.

Qualifications are few... adult ages 18-55... children 30 days-18 years... non-hazardous occupations... normal, everyday good health. If you meet these few requirements, you can qualify on the "honor system" without the usual fuss and bother. There's no red tape and no one will call on you.

And there's no risk at all! $1 fully covers you for $10,000 protection during the special one-month introductory period. You can even get your dollar back. Just return your policy within 10 days if you decide you don't wish to keep it. You begin paying your regular low monthly rate after the one-month introductory period, which also puts your family's coverage in full force.

So you see, nothing is gained by waiting until the deadline to enroll. Your rate will never be lower than it is right now and the sooner we receive your enrollment, the sooner you'll be covered. To take advantage of all your benefits under the Direct-Rate Life Insurance Plan mail your enrollment with only $1 today. Thank you!

A Quick Review of the Direct-Rate Life Insurance Plan
14 IMPORTANT QUESTIONS ANSWERED

1. Why do I need more life insurance now?
Because everything is higher today. The experts say you need insurance equal to "5 times your annual income as an absolute minimum." Add up your life policies, you'll quickly discover that you don't have "5 times", and will need at least $10,000 more.

2. How can I afford $10,000 more?
Enroll for $10,000 during this special enrollment at low monthly direct rates you can easily afford. (Example: age 35, $3.20 is your basic monthly rate — see chart above.) By enrolling now, you'll get your first month for only $1.00!

3. Can I add $5,000 for my wife? My children for $1,000 each?
Yes. Three combinations are available. Family, includes you for $10,000, your wife for $5,000, your children for $1,000 each. Husband-Wife, includes you for $10,000, your wife for $5,000. One-Parent, includes you for $10,000, your children for $1,000 each. The rate chart above shows how you can protect your whole family for very little money.

4. How can you offer such low rates?
By enrolling thousands of people at one time, without using salesmen, we've cut "sales costs" — one of the largest single items of expense. Secondly, by using the "honor system" and eliminating expensive examinations, we've cut "issue costs." And finally, by insuring only people in normal, everyday good health, we've actually cut down our rates even more!

5. Will I get service when I need it?
Absolutely. Policyowners across America are served quickly and equally. With your policy, you'll get a "special number" to call "collect" from anywhere in the U.S., and talk with a service counsellor on any question you have.

6. Can I change my policy later on?
Yes. You can convert to any kind of $10,000 cash value life policy without qualifications. You may convert any time within five years if you are under 50 at issue date — one year less for each year over 50.

7. Can my wife and children convert, too?
Your wife can convert to a $5,000 cash value policy and each of your children at age 18 automatically qualifies for a $10,000 cash value policy.

8. How quickly are beneficiaries paid?
Immediately. The full amount is paid as soon as a claim is received and verified by us. If your wife or children are also insured, you are their beneficiary. You may change your beneficiary at any time.

9. Can I drop my policy? Can you drop me?
You can drop your policy at any time. We guarantee right up to age 65, that we cannot decline renewals or change rates unless we do so on all policies (Policy PLC-39 Series) in your entire state.

10. Is Pennsylvania Life licensed in my state?
Yes. Pennsylvania Life Insurance Company, founded in 1890, is licensed and regulated by 49 states, D.C., and Canada. We are a legal reserve company with hundreds of millions of dollars in force.

11. How is Pennsylvania Life rated?
"Very Favorable" by Best's, the Nation's leading authority on insurance companies. And Dunne's, another leading authority, has given us its highest policyholder's rating, "A Plus (Excellent)."

12. How can I enroll on the "honor system"?
Just fill in the short form at the right. Select the plan that suits your needs: Family, Husband-Wife, One-Parent, Individual Adult. Enrollment age limits: 18-55 for you and your wife; 30 days to 18 years for your children. If you're in normal, everyday good health and in a non-hazardous occupation, you should qualify. Simply mail your enrollment form with only $1 for your first month. On the "honor system," there's no red tape and no one will call on you.

13. Can I change my mind?
Of course. Return your policy within 10 days after issue date and your dollar will be refunded. If you don't qualify, your dollar will be returned immediately.

14. Why should I enroll now?
Because your rate will never be lower than it is right now. Also, since conditions of health change without warning and could affect your qualifications, you should mail your enrollment today!

NU May Get Chance To Satisfy Some Doubters This Week

... COLORADO'S POSSIBLE RE-ENTRY INTO TOP TEN WOULD PROVIDE HUSKERS WITH FIRST RANKED FOE

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

One of the things Nebraska's No. 1-ranked football team has been faulted for by some football observers is that they have yet to number another top ten team among its seven victims this season.

The Huskers should get a chance to erase that stigma Saturday when Colorado invades Memorial Stadium and they'll get to do it with a national TV audience watching from their living rooms.

The Buffs, who stand 6-1 for the year, were ranked among the nation's elite 10 until they took a 45-17 lashing from Oklahoma a week ago, a loss that dropped them to 11th.

With Notre Dame and Stanford of the top ten losing Saturday, the Buffs should climb back into the rankings when the votes are tallied late Monday afternoon.

Also when those votes are tabulated Nebraska's hold on first place, a spot they have maintained since the opening weekend, may be jeopardized by No. 2 Oklahoma, particularly in The Associated Press poll since writers and broadcasters tend to be more impressed by big winning margins than are coaches (United Press International poll).

While Nebraska coach Bob Devaney was being benevolent to both his reserves and to Oklahoma State by turning the game at Stillwater, Okla., over to his second unit after the score had reached 41-0 in the opening minute of the final quarter, Oklahoma coach Chuck Fairbanks was showing Kansas State no mercy.

The result of the benevolence was a closer than it actually was 41-13 victory for the Huskers and the result of the no-mercy policy of the Sooners was a 75-28 revenge victory over the Wildcats.

"There'll be another day coming," Fairbanks uttered two years ago after Kansas State had run up a 59-21 humiliation of the Sooners.

That day came Saturday with Oklahoma calling a time out in the closing second that enabled them to punch across a final score from the one-yard line, boosting their total from 68 to 75.

But while the Oklahoma wishbone-T offense continues to run rampant through the Midlands, Nebraska's defensive Black Shirts continue to be equally as impressive.

In seven games, only one TD has been scored against them and only six have been yielded by the Huskers' entire defensive unit, two of those coming in a 35-second span in the final two minutes at Stillwater.

Despite giving up the most points they've yielded all season, the Huskers should move from third to second nationally in defense against scoring with their 5.7 per game yield being topped only by Michigan's average of 4.6.

While the Big Eight championship isn't likely to be decided until that Thanksgiving Day battle in Norman, Okla., between the Huskers and Sooners, last place likely will be determined this week when winless-in-the-league Missouri and Kansas State get together in Columbia, Mo.

Iowa State, the most surprising team in the Big Eight this season with a 5-1 mark overall, the only loss being to Colorado, is next up for the high-rolling Sooners at Norman.

THE PADDOCK

Phone Stops Ringing

South Sioux City — The early morning telephone calls may have ceased, but Jack Fickler is still making decisions affecting Nebraska horse racing.

When Atokad Park closes the state's 1971 racing campaign Nov. 6, Fickler will have completed his first year as the steward representing the state racing commission. An official for 15 years in Cornhusker racing, he served the past five seasons as racing secretary for all Nebraska tracks except Ak-Sar-Ben.

"It (steward's job) sure has stopped the phone from ringing at 2 or 3 in the morning," he jokes. "Seriously, I don't have the constant pressure of allotting stalls and trying to satisfy the nine losers of each race. But, as a steward, you have extreme pressure for a short time rather than continuing pressure of a racing secretary."

Fickler termed decisions involving placing of horses and suspending horsemen as his two biggest problems.

"You try to decide if the jockey made a sufficient effort, whether the horse was just acting bad and did the alleged violation change the order of the race and to what extent," Fickler added.

In pointing out that the state issued more probationary licenses this year (with only one license having to be revoked), the Omahan said that decisions which halt an individual from making a living are not hastily determined

Extra Meetings Held

Although Fickler, because of his position, has extra meetings with the commission and with the managers of the six race tracks, he still has only one vote when the stewards decide on objections or suspensions. Fickler joins Irving Anderson and Jim Hall at all tracks except Ak-Sar-Ben and Hall and Noel Chilcutt at Ak-Sar-Ben on the three-man steward board.

"In the years that I've been in racing, I've learned that it isn't all the management or breeders, horsemen, jockeys, or trainers — everyone has to get together to make this business a success," he says. "And as a state steward I have that opportunity to help the racing industry."

He continued: "I've had a long-range plan to try to help Nebraska racing. If I ever had an opportunity to help it, I decided I would and I wouldn't have taken this job if I didn't feel I could help and the person next in line could replace me as racing secretary."

While Fickler replaced Sonny Ray Williams, who took a similar position in Illinois, Daily Racing Form correspondent Dean Williams assumed Fickler's duties as racing secretary.

Although Fickler declined to elaborate on the issues the state commission would discuss relevant to next season's Nebraska racing season, he was quick to point out that revisions are needed on the racing surfaces.

"The racing surfaces should undergo some changes," he said. "We have to get more scientific and have better watering and composition of the track surfaces."

"I'm taking a wait and watch attitude on several issues that undoubtedly will come before the commission," he adds. "Naturally there will be pros and cons to some of these items, but I think it's better to wait before discussing them."

But Fickler still termed 1971 as the best year in the state's racing history which dates back to 1935. Attendance and mutual handle were up at all tracks and the weathermen cooperated with the exception of the first weeks at Grand Island's Ponner Park (where a snowstorm threatened opening day and canceled one date).

"A steward should probably live longer than a racing secretary," Fickler grinned.

1970 Champs Take Over No. 1

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

If the No. 1 Class A team in the state was chosen by secret ballot, Lincoln Southeast would have picked up 10,750 votes last Friday night.

That's how many people crammed Seacrest Field to watch the defending state champs take on crosstown rival East, rated No. 1 at the time.

And even the most rabid East booster would have had to admit — in the shrouded secrecy of a voting booth — that Southeast was the best in the state as the Knights ripped the Spartans, 34-18.

Despite suffering from an off-night performance at Fremont earlier in the current campaign, coach Frank Solich's Southeast club moves to the No. 1 position on the strength of a fine 6-1 record.

Omaha Burke jumps up from sixth to the runner-up spot to become the Knights most serious challenger. Burke, with an unblemished 7-0 mark, continues to succeed against the best from the Metro City and may yet be in a position to ascend the throne.

Norfolk, No. 2 last week and still unbeaten, slipped to third. The Panthers missed their big opportunity to move up to No. 1 when they were pressed to edge Hastings Friday night, 8-7. That's the same team Lincoln East bombed earlier in the season, 57-7.

Nebraska Prep Ratings

By Virgil Parker

Class A

- 1—Lincoln Southeast (6-1)
- 2—Omaha Burke (7-0)
- 3—Norfolk (7-0)
- 4—Lincoln East (6-1)
- 5—Bellevue (6-1)

- 6—Creighton Prep (5-1-1)
- 7—Fremont (5-2)
- 8—Beatrice (6-1)
- 9—Millard (6-1)
- 10—Omaha South (5-2)

Comment — Defending state champion Lincoln Southeast moves to the top after a flawless performance against previously No. 1 rated East. Omaha Burke, continuing to succeed against the best in the Metro City, is the nearest challenger. Norfolk slides to third after barely edging Hastings. Beatrice goes up to eighth after topping Millard and has a chance to climb much farther with remaining games against Fremont and Southeast.

Harry Smith wasn't too surprised to make the finals in the Lincoln Open, but his wife was astonished.

"I called her right after I made the finals," the 41-year-old PBA charter member grinned following his early lead Sunday night. "When I told her that I had made it she finals, all she said was 'you're kidding!'"

Mickey Higham of Kansas City, Mo., had finished the qualifying with 31-pin lead over No. 2 Jimmy McHugh with Smith back in the No. 12 spot with a 4138 out of the 24 pros making the cut.

But then the qualifiers began match play and Smith started making his move.

Smith, of Canton, Ohio, won six out of eight match games for 180 bonus pins and a total of 5257 pins.

In his first game, Smith dominated Mike Limongello, 268-179, then dropped his second game to Bill Beach, 192-235. Then the tempo quickened and Smith followed with games of 268, 246, 268, 211 and a 290 to jet by his opponents before dropping his final game to Jim Godman by the narrow score of 269-258.

"I got stronger as the night wore on," Smith said in explaining his almost phenomenal feat. "I worked out a little bit with Clyde Scott (player's service representative) and he told me to stay behind the ball a little more. Before, I was driving the ball right into the lane and wasn't accomplishing anything."

Smith's 290 in his seventh game almost gained him a 300, but he said "I got a little too excited and left the four pin."

But Smith currently in ninth place on the all-time money winners list, said he's bowling real well and expects to finish real strong in Monday's two eight-game blocks.

Behind Smith is Teata Semiz of River Edge, N.J., who is followed by Jack McMahon, Larry Laub and Jimmy McHugh to round out the top five.

But the surprise showing of the night belonged to Jimmy Carman of Houston, Tex., who moved from the last position to the No. 9 spot, rolling one of Sunday's three 300 games enroute.

Carmon, who is making a comeback on the tour after an absence of seven years, joined John Bennett and Laub in collecting 300 games so far this tournament to six — well within reach of the most-300s-in-a-tournament record set in South Bend, Ind. in August where eleven perfect scores were tabbed.

Carmon only dropped two games in match play, losing to Smith in his fifth game, 268-205, and to Roy Buckley, 247-239.

Defending champion Dave Soutar finished far down the list and failed to qualify along with top left-handed bowler Johnny Petraglia.

How Oklahoma Writers Viewed The Husker Win

By BOB HURT
Sunday Oklahoman

Stillwater — Nebraska, suffocating on defense and crisply varied on offense, steamrolled Oklahoma State, 41-13, Saturday.

Some folks south of here may question that the Huskers are the best in the collegiate land as the polls say they are. But there was no question the Red Horde from the North was best on Lewis Field Saturday.

The Huskers struck often and virtually from every direction. Jerry Tagge passed. Jeff Kinney ran. And little Johnny Rodgers scampered. But it was the defense which left 37,000 fans awed.

Stillwater — Oklahoma State's gridsters didn't even bother to ask if anyone got the license number of that truck which ran over 'em Saturday afternoon, 41-13.

They knew it was "No. 1."

Stillwater — Nebraska combined its awesome defense with the flashy kick returns of Johnny Rodgers Saturday to methodically hammer out a 41-13 decision over Oklahoma State before 37,000 fans — the fourth largest crowd ever to watch a game at Lewis Field.

Stillwater — Nebraska's relentless defense kept control of the game by strangling Oklahoma State until the No. 1 ranked Cornhuskers got their offense in gear Saturday and rolled to a 41-13 football victory.

A sellout crowd of 37,000 saw the Cornhuskers sputter on offense for much of the first half, mainly because they could not keep tackle Barry Price out of the their backfield. Nebraska's only two offensive touchdowns of the first half were scored while Price was out of the game with an injury.

However, O-State never threatened to make the game any more than its mismatch advertising.

To Roll It Up Or Not To Roll It Up Seems To Be Question

By Associated Press

To roll it up or not to roll it up, that is the question these days where the leaders in the college football rankings are concerned:

Item: Second-ranked Oklahoma 75,

Kansas State 28.

Item: Seventh-ranked Penn State 66,

Texas Christian 14.

Item: Ninth-ranked Arkansas 60, North

Texas State 21.

Item: Arizona State, tied for 14th, 60,

New Mexico 28.

"Winning and losing that way is not good for anybody," said Oklahoma's Chuck Fairbanks. "It was not intentional. It was embarrassing. There was no defense played by either side."

"He ran up the score," charged Kansas State's Vince Gibson. "But that's his prerogative. I'm not bitter about anything. I had 59 points on him with 12 minutes to play two years ago."

Two members of The Associated Press Top Ten were upset. Southern California ended sixth-rated Notre Dame's unbeaten season for the second year in a row 28-14 and Washington State nipped 10th-ranked Stanford 24-23 on Don Sweet's 27-yard field goal as time ran out.

Elsewhere, top-rated Nebraska breezed by Oklahoma State 41-13, third-ranked Michigan trounced Minnesota 35-7, No. 4 Alabama held off Houston 34-20, fifth-ranked Auburn whipped Clemson 35-13 and No. 8

Georgia trimmed Kentucky 34-0

Incredible Oklahoma sent its horde of talented runners zooming out of Wishbone-T for 711 yards — most ever by a major college and matching the all-time record set by Emporia State against St. Benedict's in 1948.

The onslaught included 294 yards and three touchdowns by Greg Pruitt, 156 and two TDs by Jack Mildren, who also threw for a score, and four touchdowns by Roy Bell, subbing for the ailing Joe Wylie.

The Sooners' total offense of 785 yards was only 13 short of the mark against a major opponent, established by Vanderbilt against Davidson two years ago.

Although Gibson and Fairbanks ignored the traditional postgame handshake, the Kansas State coach didn't hesitate to praise the Sooners.

"It is truly a super team," he said. "Boy, they're great. And I don't believe I've ever seen a better back than Pruitt."

Oklahoma scored the first 10 times it had the ball, bringing the following understatement from Pruitt: "We have great confidence in our offense. Every week we get closer and closer to 1,000 yards."

Jeff Kinney scored on runs of 12 and 25 yards and Johnny Rodgers caught a six-yard pass and blazed 92 yards with a punt to spark Nebraska over rugged young Oklahoma State.

"They're awesome," gasped State's Floyd Gass. "They're stronger than last year. They deserve their ranking."

Dawson-Taylor Combination Boosts Kansas City

By United Press International
Len Dawson's 28-yard touchdown pass to Otis Taylor with 3:59 left enabled the Kansas City Chiefs to defeat the previously unbeaten Washington Redskins, 27-20, Sunday and remain tied for first place in the Western Division of the National Football League's American Conference.

The day was marred by the fourth fatality in pro football history when wide receiver Chuck Hughes of the Detroit Lions collapsed with 62 seconds remaining in a game with the Chicago Bears and died later.

of an apparent heart attack.

Taylor scored the tie-breaking touchdown for the Chiefs with a one-handed catch of Dawson's pass. The Chiefs, now 5-1 as are the Redskins, set the stage for the finish with 10:05 to play when Dawson capped an 82-yard drive with a 15-yard TD pass to Elmo Wright.

The Redskins, who started the game as the only unbeaten team in the NFL, had a 17-6 lead at halftime thanks to scoring passes of four and 36 yards from Bill Kilmer to Charlie Taylor.

The Oakland Raiders, who share first place with Kansas City, downed the Cincinnati Bengals, 31-27, as 44-year-old George Blanda came off the bench to spark two fourth-period touchdown drives.

Blanda, who took over with 11:46 left in the game and the score tied 17-17, passed 17 yards to Marv Hubbard to give the Raiders a 24-17 lead. The Bengals bounced back with a TD and took a 27-24 lead on an 11-yard field goal by Horst Muhlmann but Blanda led another drive which was climaxed by Hubbard's one-yard TD plunge with 2:04 left in the game.

The Los Angeles Rams retained first place in the National Conference West with Bobby Douglass threw TD passes of 54 and 15 yards and scored the winning TD on a one-yard plunge to lead the Chicago Bears to a 28-23 decision over the Lions. Douglass, filling in for injured Kent Nix, completed 15 of 21 passes for 150 yards. Ron Jessie returned a kickoff 102 yards for a TD for the Lions.

Hughes, 28, collapsed on the field and was taken to a hospital where efforts to revive him failed.

Roger Staubach threw TD passes of 35 and 28 yards to Bob Hayes and ran two yards for another TD in guiding the Dallas Cowboys to a 44-21 triumph over the New England Patriots. A crowd of 65,708 turned out for the Cowboys' first game in their new Texas Stadium home Jim Plunkett threw two TD passes for the Patriots.

The Denver Broncos handed the Cleveland Browns their first shutout in a regular-season game since 1950, 27-0, and held the Browns to 15 yards rushing and 36 passing. Don Horn threw a seven-yard scoring pass and Bobby Anderson ran six yards for another Denver touchdown.

John Brodie's 59-yard pass play to Dick Witcher and field goals 12, 19, 34 and 40 yards by Bruce Gossett led the San Francisco 49ers to a 26-14 win over the St. Louis Cardinals. Brodie's game-breaking TD pass came midway through the fourth period after the Cardinals crept to within two points on a 49-yard TD pass from Pete Beathard to John Gilliam.

John Fuqua's 30-yard TD run with 3:07 to play gave the Pittsburgh Steelers a 23-16 victory over the winless

Houston Oilers; Dick Shiner passed for two TDs and ran for a third as the Atlanta Falcons downed the New Orleans Saints, 28-6; Larry Csonka rushed for 137 yards and Jim Kuck for 121 as the Miami Dolphins ground out a 30-14 win over the New York Jets and rookie Happy Feller kicked three field goals in the Philadelphia Eagles' 23-7 win over the New York Giants.

Baltimore at Minnesota Monday night rounds out the weekend schedule. San Diego tripped Buffalo 20-3 in a Saturday night contest.

Hughes Dies In NFL Tilt

Detroit (UPI) — Chuck Hughes, a 28-year-old wide receiver for the Detroit Lions, collapsed on the field only a minute before the game was over Sunday and died less than an hour later.

Nearly 55,000 fans in the stadium and thousands of television viewers watched as Hughes was taken from the field in an ambulance. He had collapsed on the Chicago Bear 15-yard line. No other players were near him.

Hughes was the fourth professional football fatality and the first to suffer an apparent heart attack on the field during a game.

Two team physicians administered oxygen and tried to revive Hughes with artificial respiration but he never regained consciousness. His wife, Sharon, was at Ford Hospital when he was pronounced dead.

Dr. Richard A. Thompson, the Lions' team physician, told members of the team and newsmen of Hughes' death at the Detroit dressing room. "I just talked to the hospital and they just pronounced him dead," Thompson said, obviously shaken.

Maxfield Paces Mustang Victory

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha Mustangs exploded for a 26-0 halftime lead then had to stage off a strong challenge by the Joliet Chargers to win 35-24 Sunday.

The Mustangs' quarterback-coach Jim Maxfield hit flanker Dan Huskin twice with scoring passes.

The loss gave Joliet a 5-2 record and knocked them out of first place in the Midwest Professional Football League.

Casper Captures Easy Victory In Kaiser Open

... YEARLY EARNINGS PAST $100,000

Napa, Calif. (UPI) — Billy Casper snapped a 14-month victory slump with a final round 69 Sunday to win the $150,000 Kaiser International Open by four strokes with a record 72-hole score of 19-under-par 269.

It was the 45th career victory for Casper, but his first since he won the 1970 Avco Classic, and it was worth $30,000, pushing his 1971 earnings past the $100,000 mark, the sixth straight year he has reached that plateau.

Casper had no problems at all in wrapping up the Kaiser tournament on a perfect day. He had four birds and not a single bogey in his closing round and finished ahead of Fred Marti, who moved past Tommy Aaron with a closing five-under 67 to grab second place and win $17,100.

Aaron, who started the final round two strokes behind Casper, shot a one-under 71 and wound up third at 274. 14 under par and two strokes ahead of George Johnson, whose closing 72 gave him fourth place at 276.

Casper played near perfect golf in the four rounds of the Kaiser, completely mastering Silverado's two courses. He finished with 21 birdies and only two bogeys for 72 holes as he beat the old Kaiser record of 15 under par shared with Jack Nicklaus, George Archer, Don January and Kermit Zarley.

Casper's four rounds were 67-65-69-68, and he finally broke his slump with a new set of irons over a course he likes to play.

Casper now will leave the tour and play a couple of tournaments in Japan and one in Morocco before winding up the year in the Disneyland World at Orlando the first week of December.

Second place was worth $17,100 and represented Marti's biggest check of the year. Previously, he won the satellite Ontario-United Open, but that triumph was worth only $5,000.

Aaron's third place finish was worth $10,650 and pushed his 1971 earnings to $61,620. Marti's earnings jumped to $54,284.

Miller Barber, with a 70, and Mike Hill, with a 74, tied for fifth at 279, nine under par, while John Schlee (69), Dave Eichelberger (70), Hale Irwin (70) and Lou Graham (70) tied at 280 and seventh place.

Casper attributed his success in the Kaiser to the new irons, and a determination to finally win a tourney title this year.

"I hit so many good long iron shots," he said, "That it began to scare me, because I usually don't hit them that well. No question in my mind, the irons made the difference in my winning."

The long iron shots also put

Siffert Dies In Wreckage

Brands Hatch, England (AP) — Jo Siffert, 35-year-old Swiss driver, died in the flaming wreckage of his BRM Formula 1 car Sunday in a "triumph victory" race that turned into tragedy.

Siffert, whose own country banned motor racing as too dangerous, was burned to death under his blazing car, which crashed into a bank, overturned and exploded.

He had been driving at more than 100 miles an hour.

British driver John Surtees, who was following Siffert at the time, said later: "He didn't stand a chance. His gear box seemed to seize and the car flipped over as it hit the bank out of control."

The race, a nonchampionship event, was organized to replace the Mexican Grand Prix in which drivers had refused to compete because of inadequate safety precautions.

NASCAR Champion Petty Nabs American 500 Race

Rockingham, N.C. (UPI) — All-time NASCAR driving champion Richard Petty once again proved his mastery of the North Carolina Motor Speedway Sunday, driving his electric blue Plymouth to victory in the American 500 stock car race.

The grinning, curly-haired speedster, who had four previous wins at the one-mile superspeedway, finished the 500-mile race in four hours, 23 minutes and 52 seconds for an average speed of 113.405 miles per hour and the first-place prize money of $16,620. The win raised the season earnings of stock car racing's first millionaire winner to $270,230.

Petty's Dodge-driving teammate, Buddy Baker took second place and $9,745 by crossing the finish line almost a mile behind.

Petty, who collapsed from exhaustion and required a few whiffs of oxygen after the race, took the lead for keeps on lap 349 when he dived down inside Baker in the second turn.

"It was probably the best we ran all year," said Petty. "I ran just as hard as I could the whole time. I got a lap behind and run real hard to get up."

Baker at first thought he had won the race and that Petty gained the lead by passing him during a caution.

"I slowed down, I thought the caution was out," Baker said. "But it must not have been. He must have thought it was behind him."

"I passed him before I got the flag," Petty said. "I just got by him. The boys right behind us got it."

Donnie Allison, driving the Woods brothers Mercury for brother Bobby who got out in lap 294, crossed the line third, three laps behind the leader.

Plymouth driver Pete Hamilton was fourth and defending Grand National division driving champ Bobby

Orantes Triumphs

Barcelona, Spain (AP) — Spain's Manuel Orantes won the week-long Spanish Open Tennis Tournament Sunday, defeating Bob Lutz of Los Angeles in the finals, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE
During an 11-year period as Castleton Farm's trainer-driver Ralph Baldwin won an incredible 119 harness racing stakes.
Good packaging of foods for the freezer takes only a few seconds longer.
Soccer is known as association football in England.
The common boa constrictor can grow to 11 feet in length.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE
Here's how to work it: One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you. Right.
